A Message from Administration

A. Babaian, D. Bulow, T. Parsons

Open this yearbook and you'll see that it has been another year to remember at Glenlawn. However, although we are extremely proud of our students and our school, we are NOT going to tell you to treasure your high school memories because these are the best years of your life. It would, after all, be a very sad thing to insinuate that life is an anticlimax after high school. However, we are going to tell you that high school memories persist, and well they should. After all, in these years, you evolve from junior high kids to Glenlawn Lions, ready to take on the world.

Flip through this yearbook and see yourself and your peers doing all of the things that make high school memorable and character-building: learning, playing, performing, travelling, volunteering, cheering, collaborating... sometimes excelling, sometimes just scraping by, sometimes even failing, but always becoming.

Enjoy the enormous promise evident in the achievements and hijinx documented in this yearbook. Think about how your generation can change the world for the better. Appreciate the people who helped you to succeed - your families, your friends and of course, your teachers. Over the years to come, savour your glory days at Glenlawn and try not to embellish the stories you tell to your own children too much.

To our graduates, farewell. No one can predict the future, but we are confident that you have gained the skills you need to handle whatever comes your way. And remember, we expect you to pay to the future at least as many pleasures and successes as you have received at Glenlawn.

Donna Bulow, Terry Parsons, Arpena Babaian

A Message from the Editors

AT LAST! You have NO IDEA how much work making a yearbook is! Doing a yearbook is an intense and difficult task, but it is also a rewarding one. We have worked long, long hours to create this book for you (read - we are writing this in mid-July with 30 pages still blank), and we hope that you will enjoy it in years to come.

Our goal is to recapture all the wonderful memories you have of your time at Glenlawn, but it is simply impossible to get it all. There are so many fabulous things happening each and every day at this school that we cannot capture it all. Here you will find a good sampling of the diversity of life at Glenlawn.

With any of our memories, there are good times and bad times. As you grew during your time at Glenlawn, you will have experienced both joy and sorrow. The staff, students, and parents have worked very hard at making your overall experience at Glenlawn a happy one.

Ultimately, this is YOUR BOOK. We have tried to provide the bits and pieces that will trigger your memories, but it is a record of events and activities that YOU made happen. The spirit and dedication that you've shown at Glenlawn should not be forgotten. Apply the same energy (or learn from the energy that others have shown) to your job, your family and your life, and you will have many more great memories.

As editors, our goal has been to preserve those happy moments. It is our wish that you will cherish your fondest memories of this year, and this book will bring all the times of joy and triumph back to you for the years to come.

Your Student Council

Presidents' Message

At times things got a little hectic, but, in the end the 99/2000 Student Council did its job and did it well. When push came to shove, we shoved right back and held our own. Of course we couldn't have done it by ourselves.

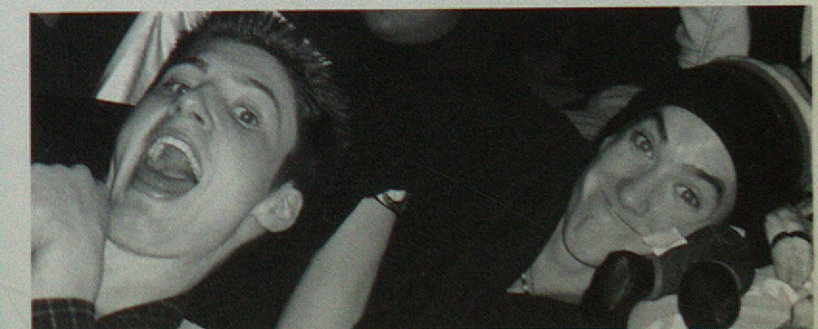

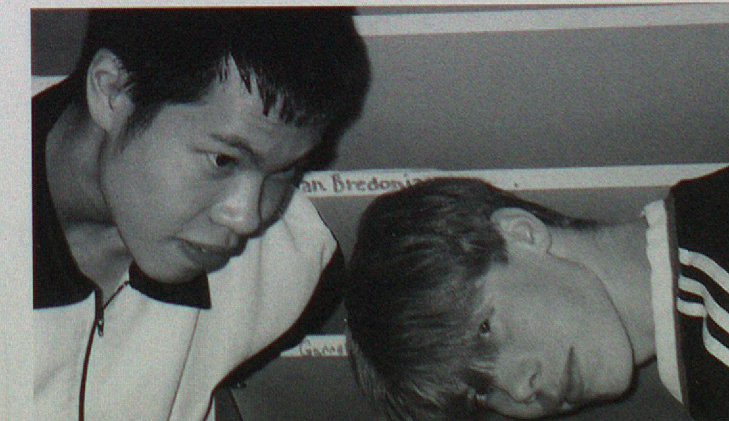

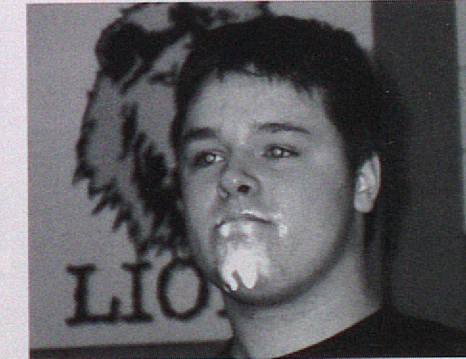

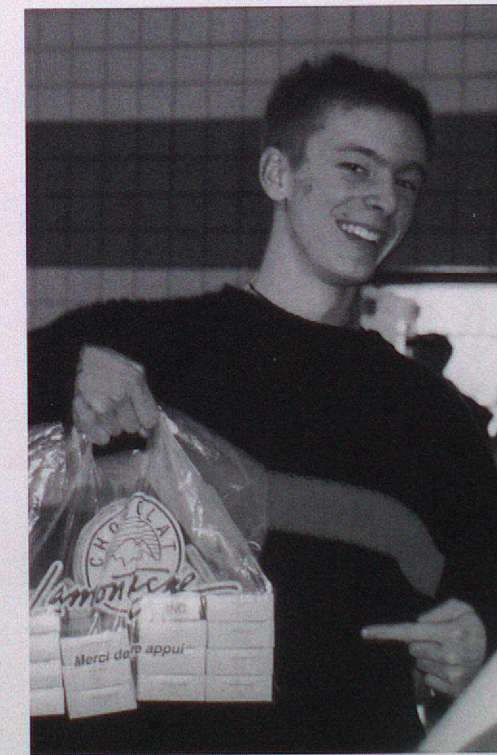

We'd like to thank everyone who from nine to four (sometimes much later) called Glenlawn their home. But we'd especially like to thank all the dedicated guys and gals who came out to the meetings. Not to mention the staff representatives who put in so much work. So thank you Ms. Jones, Mr. Entz, Mrs. Beckeris, Mrs. O'Connor and Mrs. Quinton. It was because of all of you that Student Council never once got indicted.

Junior Achievement

Junior Achievement is a non-profit organization that teaches students about starting and running their own business company.

Students from Glenlawn were a part of four different companies: BECO, Masonica, Lasting Impressions, and Phat Beads and they made a great showing in Junior Achievement this year.

Congratulations to Rachael Stiles, who won Junior Achievement's Sales Person Award, and to Jeffray Bharna, who placed second in the competition. Also congratulations to those who won awards at the Future Unlimited Banquet, especially to the members of Lasting Impressions, who won Company of the Year.

Holidays Bring Out the Best

Christmas Skits

Every year, Glenlawn students, staff and student teachers put on a great show for the holidays. This year was no exception, with a humorous (though a bit dated) version of the old Rita McNeal Show put on by staff, a pun-filled rendition of "The Twelve Days of Christmas" by the student teachers, and a flamboyant (and violent) story about a missing Christmas tree performed by the students. This year, the students did a play with great impersonations of the staff and their little idiosyncrasies. It was a SMASHING way to start the holidays!

Et Tu tu?

Mr. Ward does an impressive dance for the crowd during the Staff Christmas skit. The Christmas spirit touches each and everyone of us differently, I suppose.

Rita Mc Who?

Whoever, it was still a funny bit. Somehow, that strong air of dignity and respect that the staff exude (heh) was temporarily suspended. And now that these images are published, that may be permanent!

A one, a two, a three...

The student teachers perform "The Twelve Days of Glenlawn". Teaching seems to be an appropriate career choice for this lot. Certainly, we wouldn't recommend singing!

The Ghost of Christmas "Get Your A Back to Class"

When the mistletoe came out, Mr. Humphrey had to fight off the ladies!

(and the Wackiest) at Glenlawn

The True Story of Mr. Kullman's Tree

Once upon a time, there was a fierce giant, known throughout the land as Mr. Kullman. This giant had one major weakness - he loved the holidays, and his favourite holiday was Christ-of S3 stole the tree when Mr. Kullman was busy counting his huge piles of gold.

Mr. Kullman was enraged to the point of distraction. He pulled at his hair 'til almost none remained, and he inflicted painful homework checks on those S3's he could catch.

The people of S3 rallied, and decided that it was wrong to steal, even from a mean giant. When Christmas came, they returned the tree to Mr. Kullman. It is said that his heart grew three sizes that day...

The Plot Thickens!

Mrs. "Briggs" is interrogated.

mas. One year, he searched the land high and low for the most beautiful tree in the land. The people of the land of S3 saw this beautiful tree and envied it. One day, the bravest warriors

(Epilogue: The tradition, started in 1980, of Mr. Kullman's vanishing tree continues to this very day.)

"Where's My Tree?"

Mr. "Kullman" has a gentle talk with Mr. "Iafolla".

The Final "Outcome"

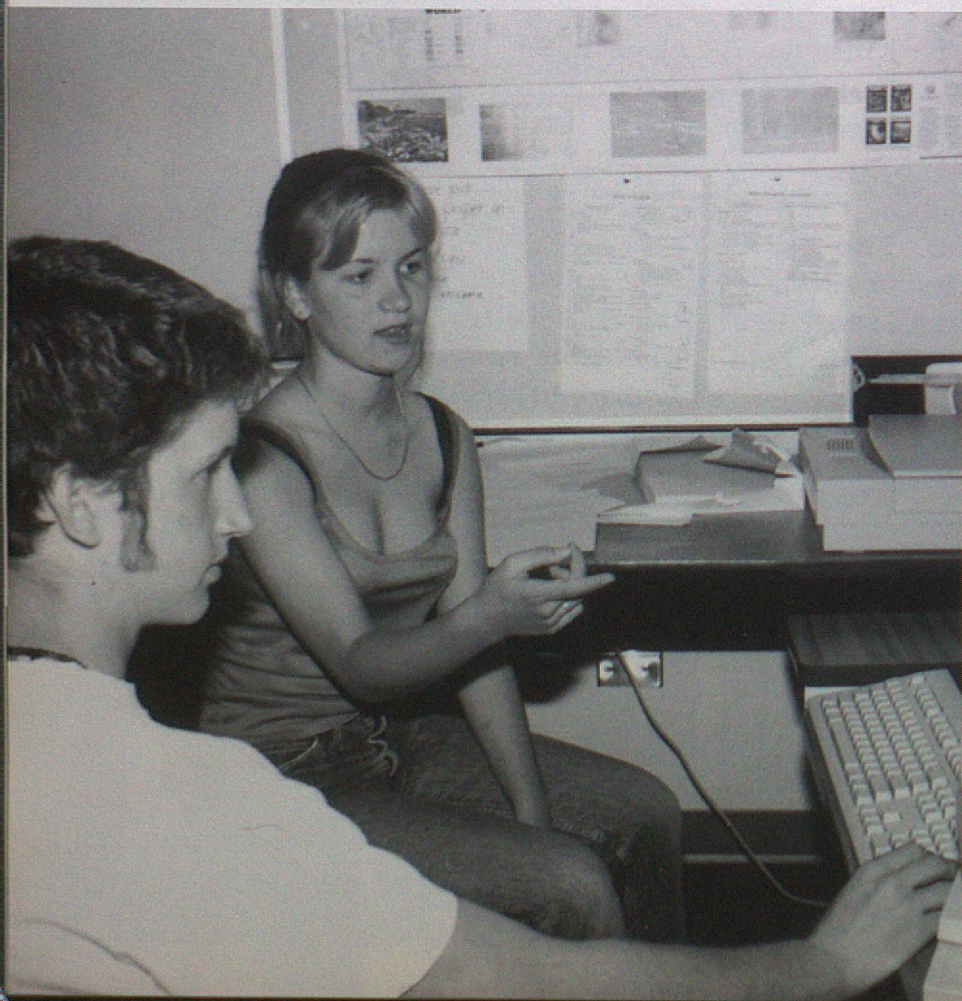

The quest for the tree ends happily with the arrival of "admin". However, the question remains - is this Life-Long Learning, or Problem Solving?

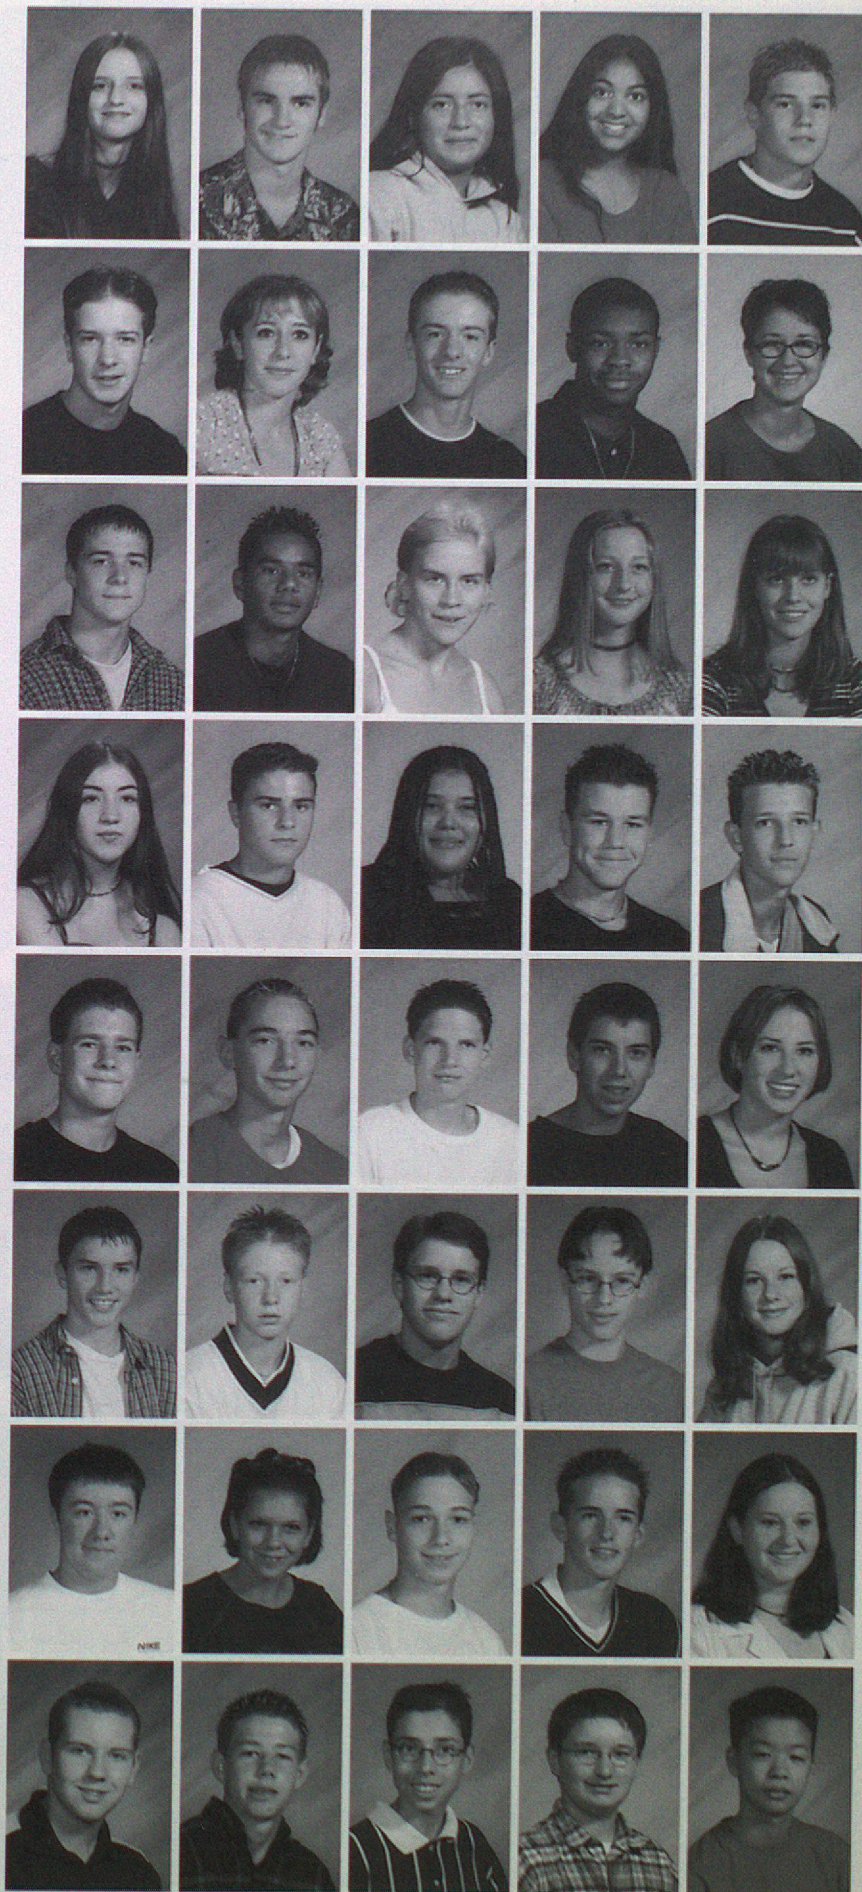

"Where's My Peroxide?"

As a final Christmas comment, did you notice that Santa's beard seemed a bit dark this year? Glenlawn's high spirits probably makes him feel that much younger!

Spirit Week ROCKS!

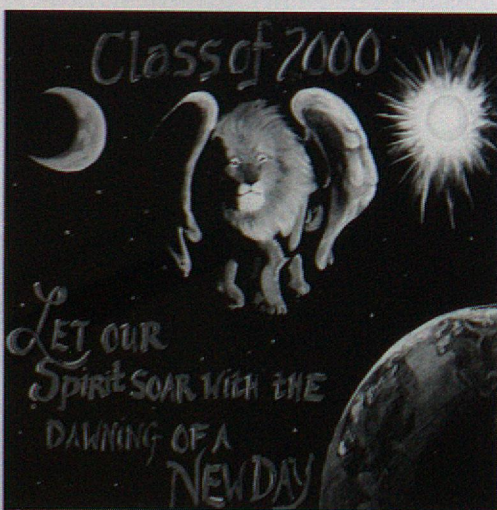

That was the week that was!
What an experience!
What a fantastic time!

From the Beastie Boys to some beastly "girls", Spirit Week had it all!

Rockin' performances, fantastic skits and shows, spectacular games and competitions - you name it!

Spirit Week ROCKS

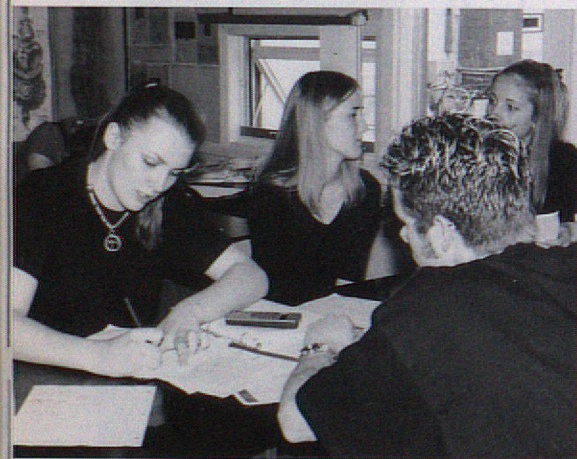

The annual poster contest Glenlawn is reknown for the artistic abilities of its students!

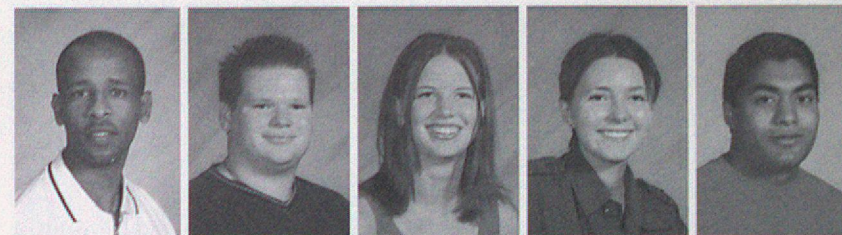

When All Was Said and Done, You've Gotta Ask: Who Won?

The S4's came in first (no surprise!), but the S2's managed to defeat the S3's - a rare event in Glenlawn history. But the real winners were the entire Glenlawn population, who built our already great spirit into an awesome force!

Glenlawn Fine Arts presents...

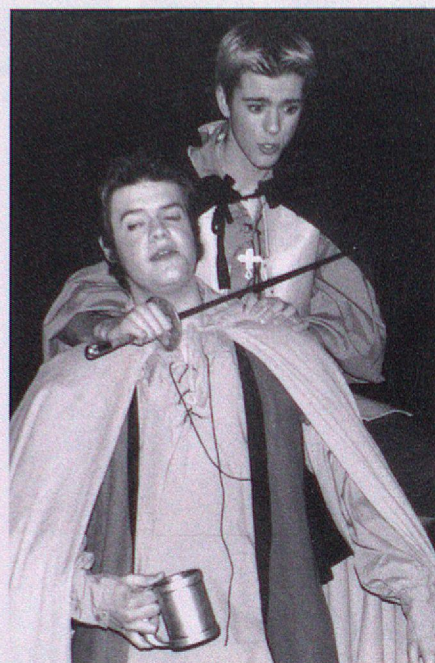

Cast of "As You Like It"

As You Like It is a comedy about romance in a troubled dukedom. Rosalind is in love with Orlando, the son of an out-of-favour lord. Rosalind flees the court and hides in the forest, disguised as a man. Orlando, too, is driven into the woods, where they meet. Orlando asks romantic advice from Rosalind, as a man, and it isn't long before Rosalind is pretending to be a man pretending to be a woman. Whew! (Is it just me, or was cross-dressing a theme this year? Spirit Week, Where's Charley, and As You Like It...food for thought.)

Glenlawn's production of As You Like It was a wonderful success. Although many people today find Shakespeare's works hard to follow, this was not a problem in this production. The actors/actresses brought the play to life for the entire audience. This year's production had a little about everything...romance, humour, and a little action. This production had great support from the crew members, the director, Ms Quinton, and from the very appreciative audience.

Shakespeare's As You Like It

Where's Charley? - A Comedy

A case of mistaken identity, lies and deceit, love and romance, and lively music: Who could ask for anything more?

This year's musical, Where's Charley, was set in the late nineteenth century when dating without a chaperone just wasn't done. Too bad for Charley, Jack, Kitty, and Amy because their chaperone is no where to be found. It's a good thing that Charley looks good in a dress...sort of.

Needless to say, with a show full of humor, compromising situations, dancing and, of course, singing. Where's Charley was a great success and was hugely entertaining.

Special thanks to Mr. Cape and his crew because without their contributions, we'd be singing naked to a black curtain. And to Mrs. Redekop: Thank you so much, your hard work and dedication goes a long way in making these musicals great. -Giselle M. F. Villegas

I Remember Mama...

The 40S Drama class performed "I Remember Mama" in May, 2000. This is the story of an immigrant family and the strong personalities which strain the family, and yet hold the family together. A fabulous performance by one and all!

Do YOU Remember Mama?

Those of you who have been living under a rock for the past few years may not know that Improv is basically a bunch of smart asses, too wimpy to play any real sports, who have to settle with trying to be funny. Nothing is rehearsed or memorized, and suggestions for scenes (like for example CuisineArt) are given by an all-too-excited audience. The 1999/2000 Glenlawn improv team would like to thank explorer Marco Polo for being such a great guy, 'Q' for all her support, and especially Brin Jones, our coach, who helped us realize that we're not as funny as we thought.

In Loving Memory

Tara Ewankiw
September 21, 1999

*And He will raise you up
On eagle's wings
Bear you on
The breath of dawn . . .*

Words themselves cannot describe what it was like to lose Tara this year.

Those who knew and loved her best described her as an angel. Those who barely knew her were still bestowed upon with that megawatt smile of hers. To those who didn't know her, there was still something there to realize she was special.

She suffered from epilepsy, but whatever pain she felt, it never stopped her from sharing her spirit, laughter, and her love with others who were suffering. She volunteered countless hours of her time and was a shoulder to lean and cry on whenever someone needed her.

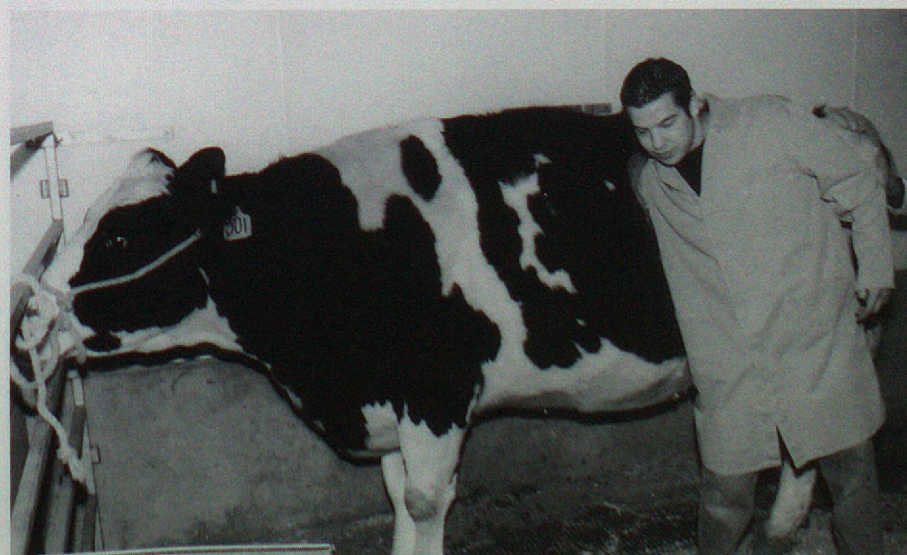

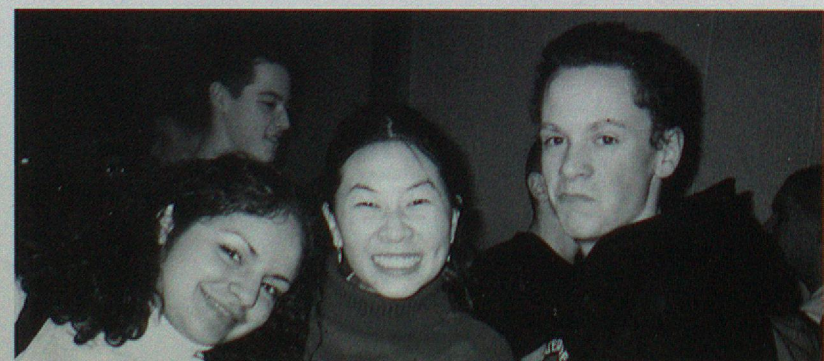

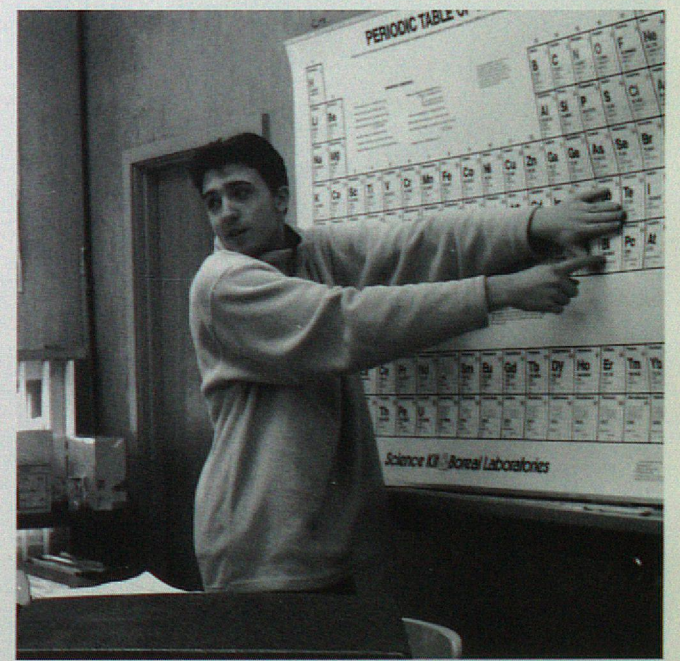

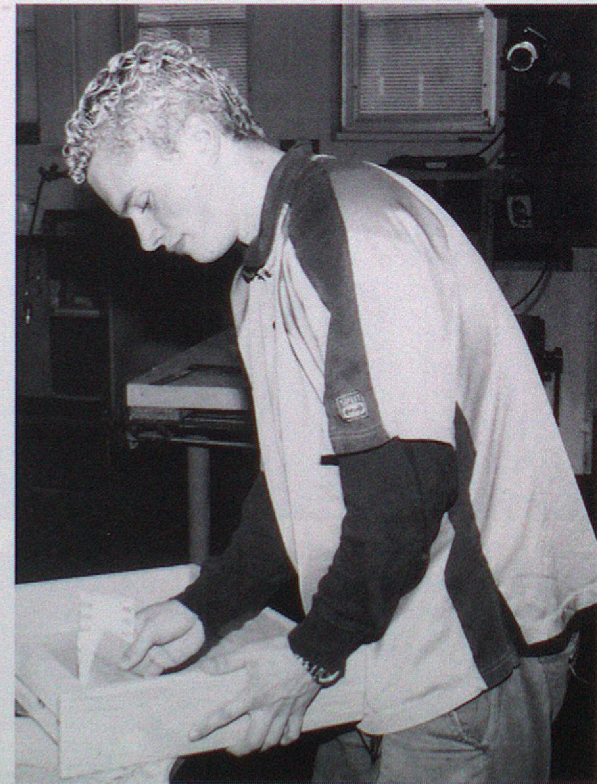

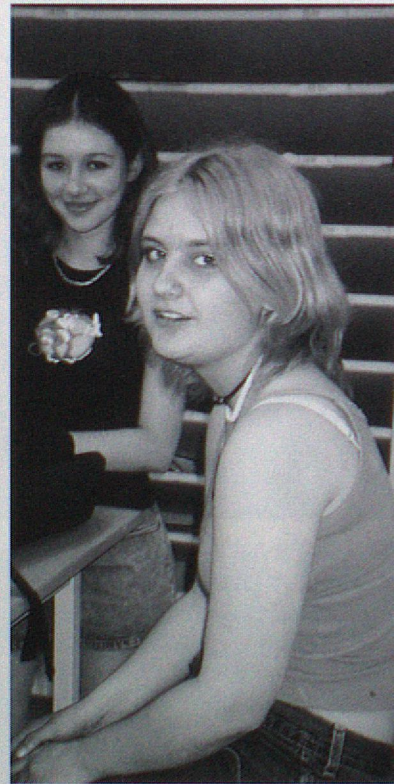

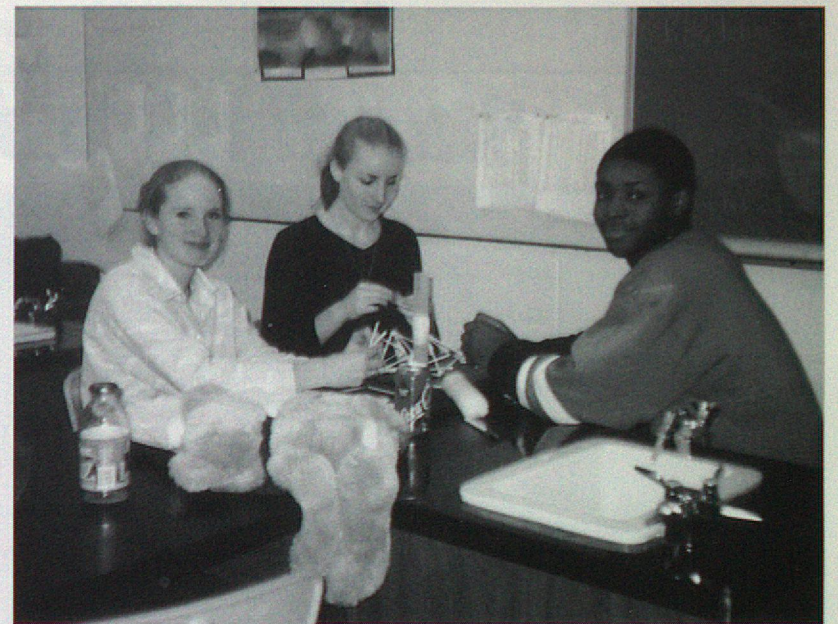

Tara, there could never be anyone else in the world like you and even as we speak, you are watching out for us. You were an original and one of a kind person. Your humor and your smiles touched everyone you met and your kindness, generosity of spirit, and bravery will never be forgotten. There was great pain and sorrow when you left us so suddenly, but the memories of you will make us smile. And though you are gone from this world, you will always be in our hearts and we will never forget you.

Saying goodbye to a friend is never easy, and it is harder when things have been left unsaid. But now the only thing left to say is good-bye, Tara, thank you for touching our lives. It was a blessing to know you. We will all miss you.

*And make you to shine like the Sun
And hold you in the palm

Valedictorian Address

Once read that, every today well lived, makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope. Today, we look upon that vision of tomorrow, some of us with eager anticipation, most of us with total dread, and we think to ourselves, "my God, where do we go from here?"

Some of us will do nothing and then we will use the shortness of life as our excuse for never getting anything done. I have learned that there are some people who will be bothered by a broken pinky nail than by the millions of starving children in the world. There are some who will choose to walk forever wearing a blindfold simply because they are afraid to really see. Yet, I truly believe that there are some of us who will do such great things in our lives, that despite the violence, atrocities and suffering we are surrounded by, we will be able to say that life indeed is beautiful and that we helped to make it that way.

The best advice I have ever heard was to never underestimate the power and potential of the human spirit and as I look out at all of you, I see raw talent. I see future doctors and writers and teachers. Among us, I see the next Jim Carrey, Mr. Nic Ouellette, and an amazingly talented musician, Miss Jolene Fisher. Between the height that Sean Town can jump and Pam Nowell's ability to do as much good work on the court as she did around the school, I see two rising sports all stars. Perhaps I can even see the next Van Gar, I mean Van Gogh. And I know, after being witness to three years of the Miss Glenlawn pageant, that this school harbors at least two fantastic cross dressers who are quite willing and ready to shake their money makers. My point is that the possibilities are endless, and so instead on wondering, "my God, where can't we go from here?" We have spirit...it's not every day that the Senior 2's beat the Senior 3's in Spirit Week. We've got determination; I cannot remember a year when Kullman's tree didn't go missing. Despite our inability to do logarithms, we do have knowledge. That little piece of rolled up paper we're getting today is proof of this. And most importantly, we have compassion, and we've found this through the friendships we've made and the character we've brought out in each other. I believe this is the real Glenlawn advantage. One of my favorite quotes states, ask where my glory both begins and ends, and I'll tell you my glory was that I had such friends.

But no matter where it is we go, we will remember those who helped us get there and so we thank you, our teachers and our families. I once heard that we are loved beyond our ability to comprehend. The only thing we can do is fill the space between all that we want to say and all that we know how to say, with a simple thank you, which hardly seems enough.

I think that the best thing about parents is that they have to love you, no matter what.

When you're sick, they make you better, when you're broke, they give you money, when you're lazy, they make you work, when you're wrong, they rub it in your face, and when you think that you are absolutely alone, they are the ones really with you. They are our secret cheering section, and so to our parents, we thank you for eighteen years of silent cheers.

If I could sum up what the teachers at Glenlawn have taught me into one simple expression, it would be that it is better to aim at the sky and hit the fence, then to aim at the fence and to hit the ground. There are those teachers who made us laugh, Mr. Ward's brief career as a ballerina comes to mind. Some whose kindness has brought us close to tears and who have bent over backwards and done cartwheels just to help us out, Mr. Entz. There are the ones who, after three years, still scare us to death, Mr. Poulter. Some who are always ready to "box our ears", Mrs. Briggs, and others willing to give us bon bons, Madame Bilenki. And then there are the few great ones that everyone secretly idolized and tried to impress. Depending on opinion, some might consider me lucky to have had Ms. Jones teach me English for two years. In those two years, I have acquired numerous 99 percents, very very few 100s. Despite my personal goal to get as many 100 percents out of this English Warden as possible, I have failed miserably. And so, to all the teachers who would give us 99.9 percent but refused to give us 100, we are eternally grateful. For as Ms. Jones once said, there is no such thing as a perfect mark, because nothing is perfect. So, to all the teachers who pushed us that inch farther, and who aimed us at the sky instead of at the fence, we thank you. You are also loved beyond your ability to comprehend.

It was once written that nothing is as difficult as the beginning, except perhaps the end. Yet, I do not think of today as an end, because I believe that nothing ever ends. Every action we take, every work that we choose to speak, every memory we create, defines who we are and makes us immortal. Immortal like knowledge is immortal, like spirit is immortal, as family is immortal, as our teachers are immortal, immortal like friendship is immortal. The difficulty is not in the beginning or the end; the difficulty is in realizing that both are the same thing. As T.S. Eliot once wrote, "we shall not cease from our exploration. The end of all our exploring will be to arrive where we started, and to know the place for the first time."

If there is one thing I do know, it is that everyone has their own way. Whether our goal is to become the next winner on Who Wants to be a Millionaire?, or you find your wealth instead lies in helping others, whether you choose to get by on your good looks, or to get by on your beautiful brains, whether you write the words that make a difference or you simply read those words, we will all inevitably find our own way. So, then, the only advice that I can give is that whether the way is right or wrong, is not for any of us to know, but is for all of us to discover. For, as Ophelia once reminded us, "we know what we are, but not what we may be."

Education is only half of it, hope is the other. Separately both are strong, but it is only when they are put together that any difference in the world is made. School loosened our blindfolds, and introduced us to events that were great and to those that were grotesque.

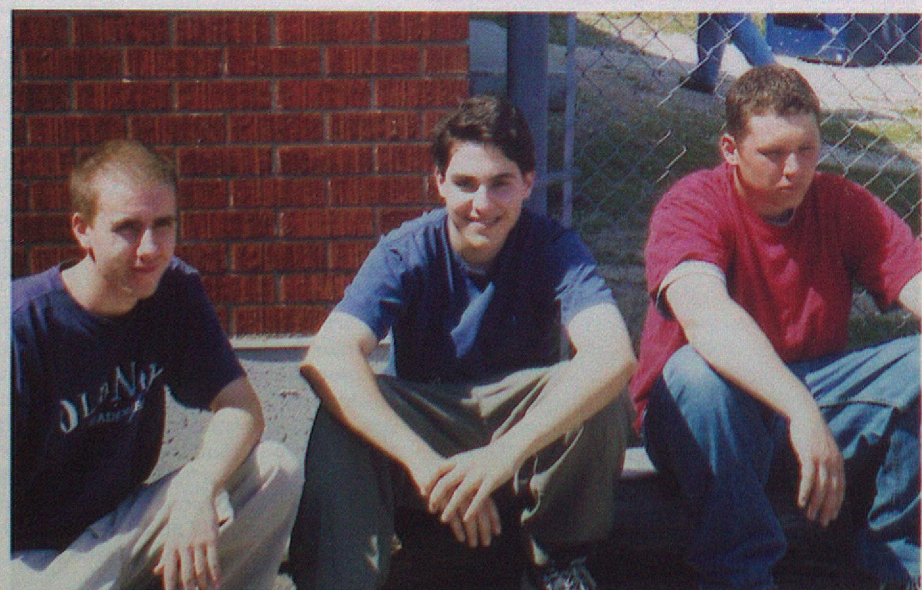

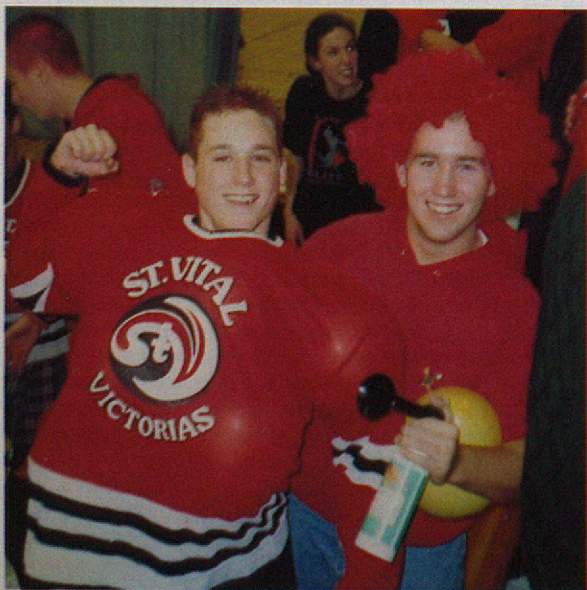

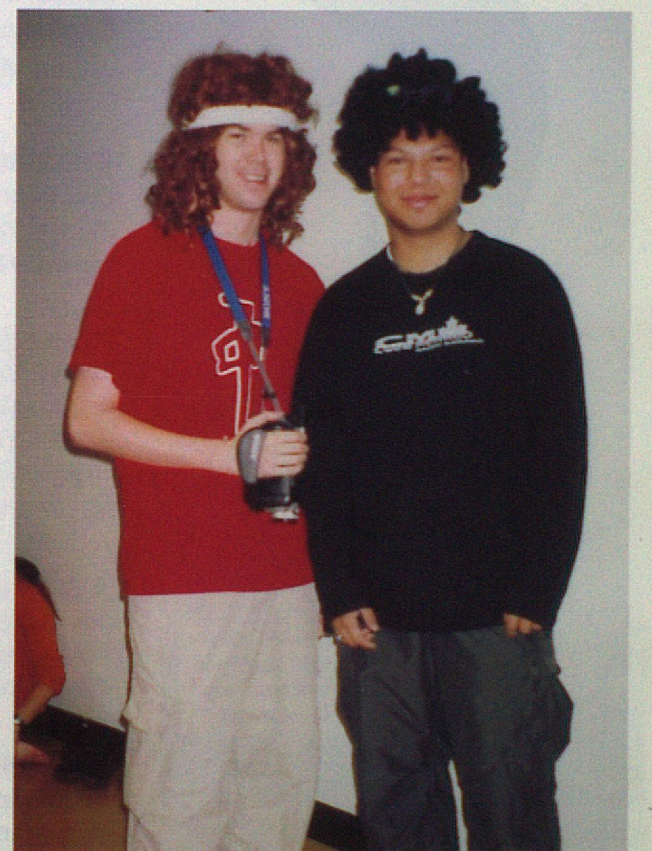

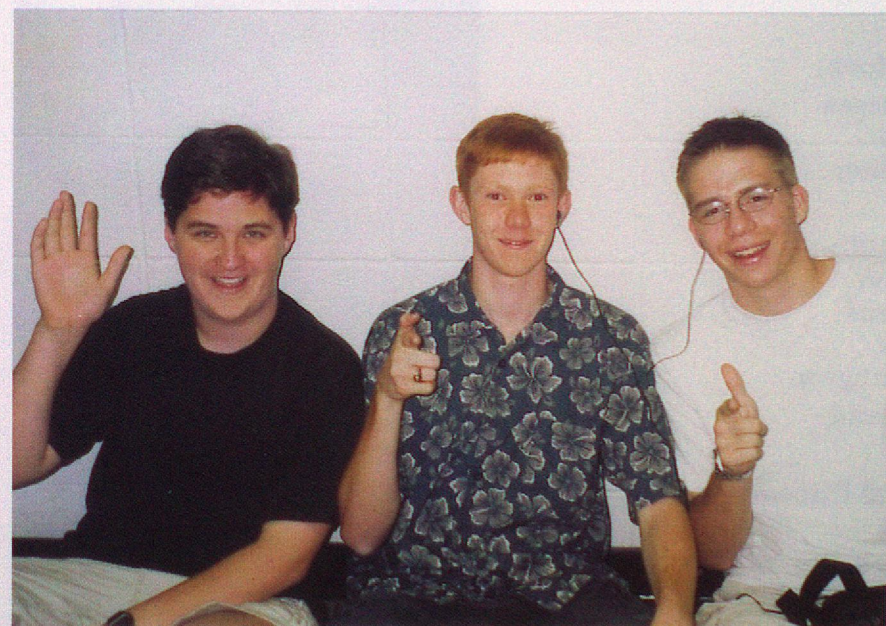

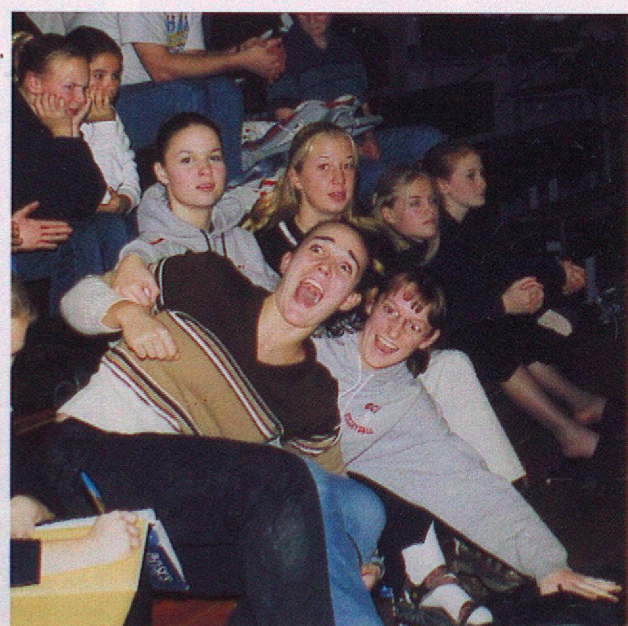

We have learned of the hatred of Hitler and of the dropping of the first atomic bomb. We have witnessed a princess die at the hands of the public, students shooting students at school, hate crimes and ethnic cleansing. We have been introduced to Mansons and Dahmer. Education has given us nightmares. But we have also learned of the survivors of the Holocaust, of women getting the vote and the end of slavery. We have witnessed new technologies that cure diseases such as cancer. We have been introduced to the most beautiful lives of Ghandi and Mother Theresa. Thus, education has also given us hope. I believe that we must take this knowledge and use it to prevent future generations from having to learn the things that we wish we had not learned.

Inside each of us is a voice, one that we will all eventually discover. Finding one's voice is the easy part. The difficulty comes in deciding what that voice will say. Voices that are beautiful and honest will echo forever, long after facts and figures, dates and equations have been lost. A wise person once observed that pure wisdom is what survives after school has been forgotten.

Every today well lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope. Today, we look upon that vision of tomorrow, and maybe for the first time, we remove our blindfolds to see things scare us and delight us and sadden us, but most importantly, continue to teach us. Today is the day that we gather together the pieces of everything that others have given us along our way, and use them to make something beautiful we can call our own.

And so with the deepest honor I present to the world, Glenlawn's graduating class of 2000.

Thank You

A note to all readers:

We hope you enjoy this year's yearbook; we worked very hard to get it on the shelf. If you have any yearbook ideas, please consider joining the yearbook committee next year.

Now I can chillax. Party at Jill's house!

It's like a great weight has been lifted from my shoulders!

It's a dog's life doing yearbook!

I've had it up to HERE with Yearbook!
