Tradition Meets the New Additions

We have all felt lucky to be a part of Glenlawn. Whether we have been here for 3 months or 30 years, it is difficult to deny the fact that Glenlawn holds something very special, and we feel very fortunate to be a part of this pride of lions.

To be a lion:
-You must be committed.
-You must act with respect for others.

-You must learn to build endurance in the classroom as well as on the court.

-You must celebrate the many victories, and accept defeat gracefully.

-You must believe in yourself and in the strength of the community around you. It has been a remarkable year but we believe next year will be even better.

Old Traditions, New Additions

Glenlawn is a community that holds its traditions near and dear. Alumni will tell you that their most vivid memories of high school include Spirit Week, the Nikki Redekop volleyball tournament, Winnipeg Harvest collections, traveling to Banff with the bands and choirs, and shaking the hand of their advocate at Convocation. At the very heart of these traditions are the people who are proud to call themselves Lions!

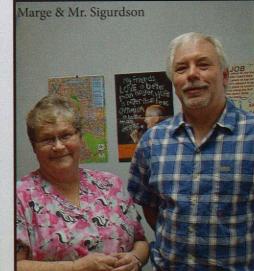

Just like a family welcoming a new member, these Lions have hearts that open up to welcome new additions to our school family. Each year the Grade 9's arrive, students from different countries enter our doors, and students transfer from different parts of the city. Each person comes with their own culture, history and experiences, never detracting from our traditions but adding to them.

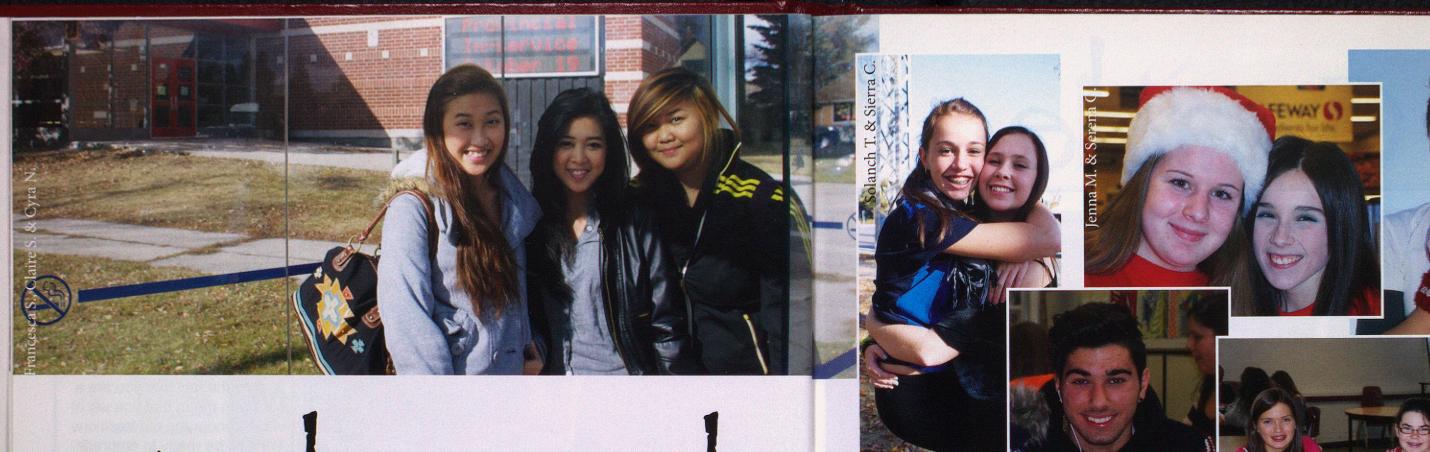

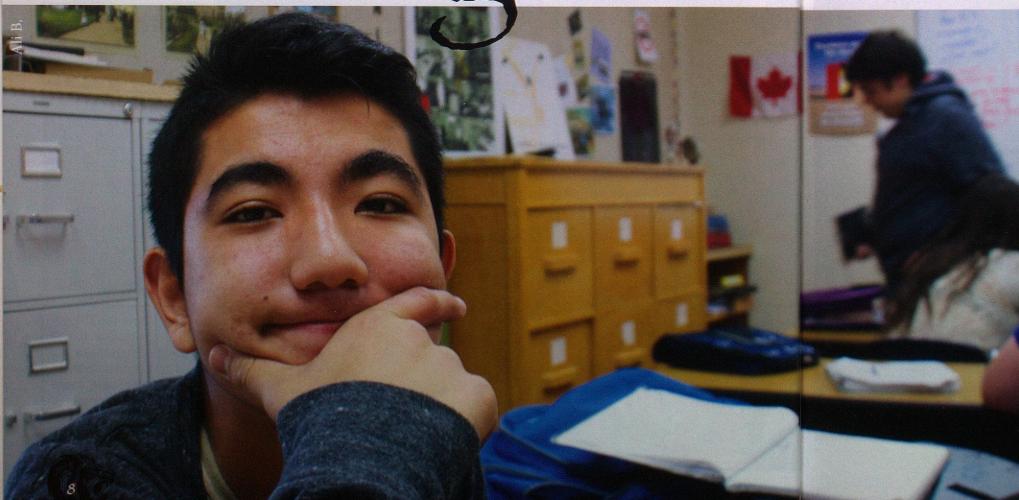

May the fact that you are a Lion mean that you will always honour the old traditions but also be ready to embrace new additions in whatever form they may take, ready to have people and experiences enrich every day of your life.

Undergrads

When you join Glenlawn in Grade 9 you quickly realize this is something different; something special. The hallways are buzzing with a positive energy. Tons of stuff to do, groups to join. Be it athletics, arts or academics, there IS a place for you. Is it correct to call it a 'clique' if it's for everyone. I don't think so.

You've emigrated to the Glenlawn Nation. And 'I Believe' you've found a new home.

Cause I have found a clique to call my own

In crowd, out crowd
I don't care
your crowd, my crowd we can share

Cause i have found a clique to call my own"

Academics

Glenlawn students demonstrate their pride in athletic fields. And this is matched by their passion in the classroom, theatre, labs and workshops. Though rarely celebrated with the same gusto as athletics, academics are winning a place in the hearts and minds of these lions.

Cubs to Grads, they have shown as much enthusiasm in their pursuit of knowledge as they have in chasing that championship banner.

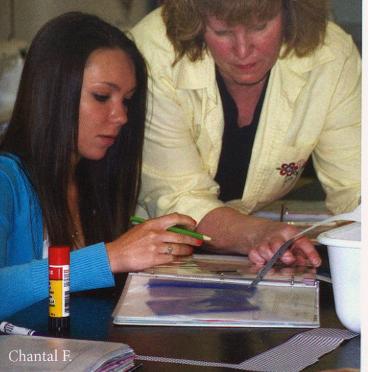

Aristotle, he would share in our pride.

French Super Génial!!

This year in French L class has been busy...as always learing a second language from the capabale hands of Madame Arnal.

The grade 9's have ▲ developed their oral skills, using dialogues, games and making short stories. They also went to a French restaurant in St. Boniface called Chez Cora during their food unit, and did a fashion show during their clothing unit.

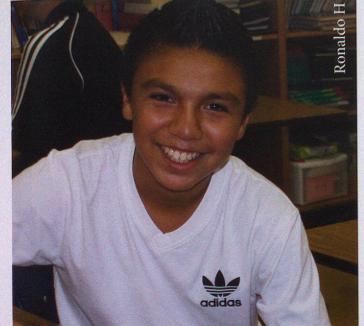

The grade 10's year I focused on topics such as volunteering, employment, and news casting. As cultural activities, they went to St. Boniface for a geocatching adventure. They went to a small French bakery to buy croissants and then got into groups of 4 - 5 and went on a adventure discovering famous landmarks around St. Boniface.

They also had a pro-Frame expert come in and teach the grade 10's how to make an animated film using digital photography.

rienteering is a family of sports that requires navigational skills using a map and compass to navigate from point to point in diverse and usually unfamiliar terrain, and normally moving at speed.

At Glenlawn, students are given a topographical map, a specially prepared orienteering map, which they use to find control points around Bird's Hill Park.

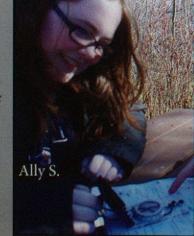

Originally a training exercise in land navigation for military officers, orienteering has developed many variations. Among these, the oldest and the most popular is foot orien-

Medieval Feast

Medieval celebrations revolved around feast days that had pagan origins and were based on ancient agricultural celebrations that marked when certain crops should be planted or harvested. lenlawn's History Stu-Udents enjoy organizing their very own tribute to this ancient tradition and every year convert Mr. K's classroom into a castle and serve up a feast fit for a King. A World So Perfect

I no longer feel the room, but only the presence of my children around my deathbed. I feel as if my bed is swaying gently on the edge of the ocean, the waves crashing onto the cold rock cliff, and water sprinkling all around my toes and legs. My body is numbing, and the blood of my heart is no longer rushing to keep my warmth.

Eternal

Though Loneliness and Darkness shred a love they were ill suited to each other by nature. Their world was a solitary one, and that suited Darkness just fine. For Loneliness the constant companionship of Darkness was not enough. Though she held him closely, for her there was always a void with that could not be filled. Darkness did not understand how she felt; he was content in his being. He lived each day like the one before and he was not troubled by that.

Opaque, blue orbs stare back at me from a weary face. Hidden beneath disheveled clothes, a crude suit of sagging skin clings to fatigued muscles and yellowed bones. "The important thing in science is not so much to obtain new facts as to discover new ways of thinking about them."
-William Lawrence Bragg

This year Glenlawn's budding scientists were busy. You see, the most important factor in becoming a scientist is to be engaged

- learning through doing, questioning and direct experience. In fact, many scientists will tell you that science tends to raise more questions than answers - it is a very humbling activity, and is best done in community, where the findings of one person is built

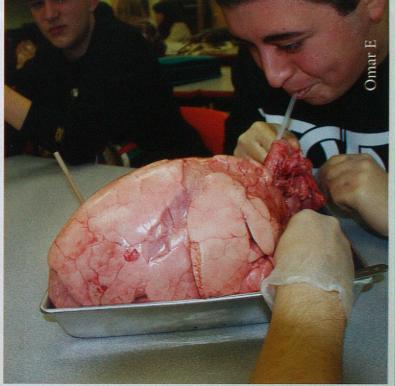

From the fundamentals of physics to the roaring reactions of chemistry to the evolving beauty of life that is biology, we shared a wonderous year of discovery.

True, discovering a flooded lab and moving your classroom to the Library, that was a less enjoyable discrepant event. Perhaps though, a necessary one. For science doesn't just happen in laboratories or classrooms. The location of your mind is more important than where you place your behind. Adopt a stance of "critical curiosity", regardless of where you seat yourself. A critical yet open attitude is necessary for cultivating a scientific mind. Open to new ideas, but not so open that you let your brains fall out.

'I believe... this was a Win.'

Over a twelve day period, forty two visual arts students and the team of five chaperones traveled through France and italy as an extension of the art program. with a focus o the art, architecture and culture they experienced some of the greatest wonders of the world! stops along the way included: Paris, Nice, Monaco, Florence, Pisa, Rome, Assisi, Vatican City, Sorrento, Pompeii, and Capri.

Europe Trip '...breathtaking'

Once again, these students were wonderful ambassadors of glenlawn and Canada. This was a trip that created a life time of memories for all us. see you again in 2015!

Mr. Monson knew from an early age he was destined to play the Trombone. As a child in the playground he found he couldn't swing and he regularly complained about the slide.

It is safe to say music is his calling. He manages to drive out all those chirps and burps present in those instruments and has every one sounding positively heavenly by June. No small feat, to be sure. With early morning classes and lunch time rehearsals we think our Sassy Band Director might just be sponsored by Red Bull.

Mr. Crowe, when not teaching, coaching, directing or producing, is running. To keep up with his schedule you'd have to be in shape. To assist him, this veritable Dr. Doolittle, has crows trained 'caw' in unison and dive bomb him if he slows from his pace. Or, as Mr. Monson suggests, the birds know a vegetarian is no threat to them.

Regardless, when he says 'Running is murder', he means it.

Shane J. & Ben

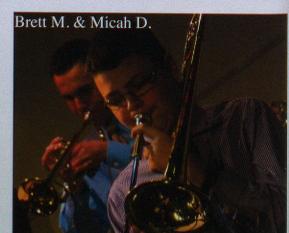

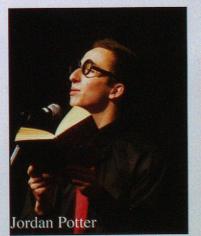

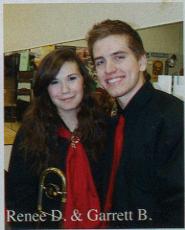

I absolutely loved every moment of the band trip. Being there was a great musical retreat for me. I was surrounded by musicians listening to music, making music and talking about music. Hearing Kokopelli was inspiring and watching the Count Bassie Band was life changing.

The best part for me was having the honour to accompany our very own Glenlawn Choir. That experience will live with me for a very long time...like forever. But I would be remiss to mention my colleagues with whom I had just the most amazing bonding experience over veggie burgers with peanut butter and jam.....don't knock it till you try it.

A special shout out to my room buddy, Ms. Pirnie and our talks into the wee hours of the morning. And we thought it would be the kids who stay up too late.

-Ms. Jain.

Rockin' Mountain Music Fest

In April the band and choir students made their annual pilgrimage to Banff for the Canadian Rocky Mountain Music Festival. The trip featured fantastic performances from jazz bands,

Jazz Junction, choir,

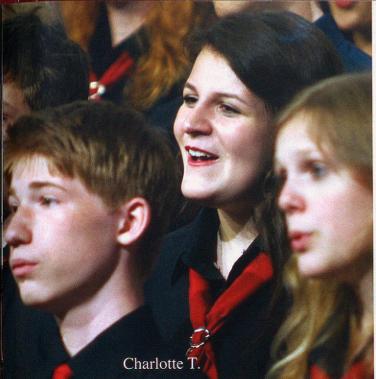

Highligh from the Union of Manitobard ers, Edmon – Kokopelli legendary Orchestra!

Jazz function, choir, band and the ensemble. Highlights included concerts from the University of Manitoba Singers, Edmonton choir - Kokopelli and the legendary Count Basie Orchestra!

Thanks to the students for an amazing trip!

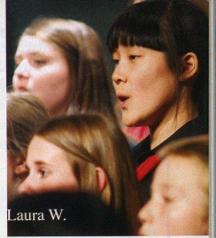

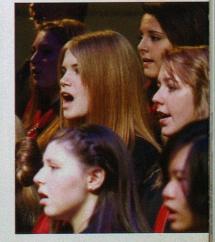

Tt was an exciting year in the drama department. We learned and laughed an awful lot and we welcomed guests like Ms Skene's brother, Rick, and nephew, Sean, who are both professional stunt coordinators and stunt men for film.

They showed us how they roll cars, fall ▲ out of buildings and light themselves on fire for film without hurting themselves.

Eugene Baffoe, a Glenlawn alumni and professional dancer and choreographer, joined us for a day of hip hop – definitely pushing some of our risk levels!

The drama troupe was an out of class group from both Improv and Drama who presented Of Mice and Men to Glenlawn students and parents as well as story theatre to the YMCA and elementary schools.

Tt's been 40 years since Lthe very first musical production was staged here at Glenlawn. David Frego (Captain Von Trapp) and Joanne Gajdosik (Maria), amongst others, stepped on stage and became the genesis of what has become one of the greatest traditions here at students that followed in Glenlawn.

If there's one thing I've Llearned here from my short led us to the performance time at the school, it's that this is a school rooted in tradition, and some of those roots run very deep. It's an incredible feeling to be part of a school culture that is steeped in such customs;

one that embraces many of the beautiful things that are accomplished here at Glenlawn.

Tam forever grateful to David, Joanne and the rest of the '73 cast for starting something so beautiful, and I am grateful to all the their footsteps, year after year, forging a path that has you will be witnessing tonight.

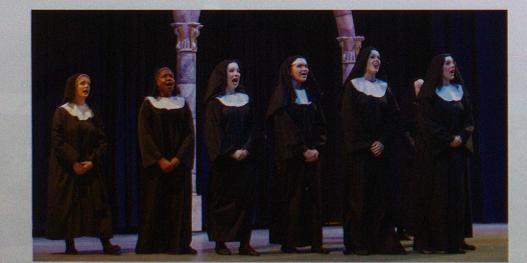

Twant to extend a huge Longratulations to all of the students who have been involved with this show. It has been not only a pure delight and pleasure, but a humbling experience to be with you. I want to thank all of the teachers and parents who have so graciously donated their time to help prepare for this production.

Twant to thank Lindsay & ▲Crouse for crafting such a wonderful story and Rogers & Hammerstein for an unforgettable score. Thanks to Erin McCallum for being such a fantastic collaborator and friend. Thanks to Erin, Ben and Olivia you guys keep me going and I love you dearly.

Emily P.

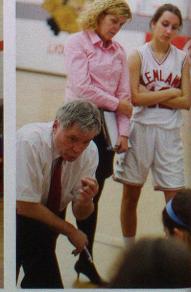

Emily is a stand-out member of the Glenlawn Lions, Manitobals Provincial Team Program and is a member of the Canadian National Cadet Team. Heading to Utah, next year this is what head coach Anthony Levrets commented "Emily is a multidimensional post player. She has great size and great hands, which allows her to be effective around the Basket, but she also possesses a skill set and ability to Pass and handle the basketball, which will allow her to fit in very well with how we play. She was a vital member of the Canadian Cadette team that won a bronze medal at the international FIBA tournament". Emily was a vital part of our pride and we will miss her.

ood evening friends, family, staff Gand of course, graduates. Thank you for joining us here today - the day that you've been preparing us for, the day we've anticipated, and the day that we say goodbye to the place and to the people who not only kept us safe, but also taught us, tested us, and shaped us. Without you, this day would not have come.

Thank you for loving us, accepting L us and believing in us. Thank you for pushing us to achieve our goals, and for supplying us with the resources to get there. Resources that provided us with hope and answers - and yes, I'm referring to beloved Google and good of Wikipedia; without which we wouldn't have been able to complete all of those ever-so-dreaded "textbook" questions.

A side from answers, media also supplied us with the news, as it was through social medias like Twitter that many of us found out about the tragedy that occurred at the Boston Marathon. Times like that really made me appreciate Glenlawn even more. Glenlawn served as a safe space where we could be ourselves and express our thoughts. No matter what race, gender, or sexual orientation, Glenlawn was always welcoming and supportive. It was and always will be a humble place filled with knowledge, and the place where we

But in all seriousness, we learned so much in the past four years at Glenlawn, and the teachers are the reason for that. When we first walked into the school, we were afraid. Afraid of exams, afraid of the grade twelves, afraid of the drama, and afraid of getting lost in the hallways. We had developed a construction of reality of what high school would be like; it was from watching movies like "Mean Girls" when we began to wonder, "When I'm in high school, will I be as popular as Glen Coco?" And yes, now that I think about it, it sounds a little ridiculous, but in all fairness we were that grade eight graduation was a big deal, and now look at how far we've come. Over the last few years we've grown; emotionally, intellectually, and a few grew physically. Watching documentaries like "Life in a Day" showed us young. This was back when we thought how people from different cultures and backgrounds live their daily lives. "Mean Girls" showed us the stereotypical rich high school girl, who lives in her own careless bubble; but we moved passed this, and we saw how hard life can be for some people; it lead us to really appreciate just how much we have to be thankful for.

However we grew at a gradual pace over the years, and after the first couple of months at Glenlawn we developed relationships with our peers and with the teachers. We started seeing them as more than people who were just there for their paycheques - because that's not true whatsoever - if that was the case, then we wouldn't be here today with so many accomplishments under our belts. They made our time at the school more enjoyable and worthwhile; of course there were still some days where we thought that they were out to get us, or purposely making lessons harder than they had to be; however, at the end of our high school journey, we realize that we have them to thank for helping us succeed. They helped us learn from our mistakes, and sometimes they let us their determination that fashioned such enthusiastic and dedicated students. And it was the same dedication and teamwork that we developed, which lead to our much-anticipated victory during 2013's Spirit Week.

Co to our staff, now turned mentors, On behalf of the graduating class I'd like to thank you for everything that you have given us. We look forward to keeping in touch with all of you, and we promise not to let you down. I mean, can we really go wrong? After all, it was you that nurtured us within the school walls. And for that same reason, I feel so confident and honoured to speak on behalf of such an intelligent and diverse group of talented individuals; and I think we can all agree that 2013 was a year to remem-

This year I had the privilege of being L the Student Council Co-President, and I witnessed just how many endeavours this group of graduates were a part of throughout the year. All the way from wearing rainbow coloured clothing to support the GSA - also known as the 'Gay to Zed' Club - to getting pink highlights to support the fight against breast cancer. We raised money for education in Nicaragua, and we supported Mr. Barth's visual art students who fundraised for their trip to Europe this past spring. These are just a few of the events that we participated in; and during every one of them, it was the support from the students that was evident in a venture's success.

It was the same support that we received from each other that got us through some tough times; for instance, when we lost our friends Carla Kalluk and Ashley Schlag, who are with us today in spirit, and in our hearts.

C very individual graduating today Lwas a part of something much larger han a classroom; we were all a part of Glenlawn Nation. Glenlawn Nation - a erm created by the Phys. Ed. Staff - is group of fans known to the city as the udest and classiest. Glenlawn Nation was present to support our athletes, such as when our varsity girls' volleyball and basketball teams both made it to the provincial finals. Also when our varsity boys and girls soccer and track teams were crowned divisional champions.

The nation then branched out to support our writers and artists for the launch of the second edition of Ignite, Glenlawn's Literary Arts Magazine, and also during Glenlawn's first every poetry slam. We supported our actors as they performed in this years' musical, "The Sound of Music," organized by Mr. Crowe, and when Mr. Monson prepared our band students for the Canadian Rocky Mountain Festival in Banff.

Glenlawn Nation became well-known all thanks to the "I Believe" cheer; it's something that Ms. Pirnie introduced to us last year, and now it is Glenlawn's keepsake.

And winning isn't the only thing that this graduating class is capable of. I believe that we have the potential to succeed. I believe that we will experience the world, and try new things; maybe even learn how to ride a motorcycle just like Mr. Young, Ms. Olfert and Mrs. Clayton. I believe that we can and will achieve greatness, and as individuals we have the power to make the world into a better place; we can start by educating ourselves regarding the issues that are going on in our world. And I encourage you all to put yourselves in someone else's shoes, and determine how you can help the society grow.

Tchallenge you to find something that Lyou are passionate about, just like Mr. Long's passion for math, Ms. Duggan's passion for the Library, Ms. Bekeris' passion for all things Shakespeare, Mr. Hansen's passion for media, and Mr. Kornberger's passion for... well, everything; whether it's science, humanities, healthcare, skilled trades, business, athletics, arts, or education. No matter what it may be, no matter what challenges we may face, no matter where we end up; I believe that we will be happy. And finally, I believe... that we... just graduated! Congratulations Class of 2013, and Good Luck!

Thank you. - Tanjit K. Nagra

Reading, writing, arithmetic, and ultimately ...retiring. Whether you teach reading, writing, or arithmetic eventually you reach the fourth R... Retirement. Glenlawn will be saying a fond farewell to our friends and colleagues this year.

Mrs. Clayton has always liked helping others and she was inspired by her mother who is also a teacher. She been teaching for 33 years, having began teaching in a tiny school in Gillam, Mb. in 1980.

Mrs. Clayton's family lived on a farm but her desire was to feed children's minds and not just their bellies.

After retirement she would like to enjoy quilting, scrapbooking, swimming, curling and skeet shooting. She would like to continue her lessons on bagpipes. And she is just looking forward so spending time with her husband, 3 children and her new grand-daughter! She is also looking forward to going back to being able to relax and reconnect with friends.

Thank you Mrs. Jackson for your wonderful years at Glenawn Collegiate! We appreciate your contribution.

One looks back with appreciation to the brilliant teachers, but with gratitude to those who touched our human feelings. The curriculum is so much necessary raw material, but warmth is the vital element for the growing plant and for the soul of the child.

In September, Glenlawn Collegiate lost one of the staff. Sadly, Mr. Don Gray passed away after a courageous struggle with cancer.

For the last ten years Mr.
Gray was an Instructional Assistant in the Skills for Living Program.

Mr. Gray was a conscientious and caring individual. The staff and students who knew with Mr. Gray have special memories and recollections of him. Mr. Gray was especially known for his consideration of others.

A bove all, Mr. Gray had a connection to the students. His genuine nature and deep conviction was obvious in the care he took with everyone of our students.

We were truly fortunate to have had Mr. Gray at Glenlawn Collegiate, particularly in the Skills for Living Program. Don's cheerful smile, soft chuckle and sparkling eyes will be sadly missed in the halls, and in the hearts of Glenlawn.

'finger-picking good'

Thoug guitars have only been an Glenlawn for a few years, its history can be traced back about 4000 years ago to the lute, made by altalian music teacher named John Clarck.

Tn 1779 Geatano Vinaccia I made the first six-string guitar in Naples, Italy. The Vinaccia family was famous for making quality violins and this new endeavor was meant to 'strum' up new business. Tust like the violen, there J are 3 main parts of the guitar; the head, the neck & the body. Normally guitars have 6 strings but they are also sold with 4, 8, up to even 18. Types of guitars are the acoustic, electric and bass and these are used in all types of music such as blues, punk, jazz and rock. And thanks to Mr. Erickson, we luv em all.

Mr. Wolfe, Mr. Krahn, Ms. Pirnie, Mr. Harder,

If you can't play volleyball, no worries. Just dress up and the costume will do the rest, 'cause if you can't play well, at least you can give spectators something else to laugh at.

his year we continued with our annual Intermural Vollyball Tournament dedicated to the late Nikki Redekop, an inspirational home town hero and Glenlawn Alumni. She continues to inspire us with her powerful story of the strength and determination she showed both on and off the vollyball court. During her all too short lifetime she was a role model to all. This year's

raised the bar even higher, with more money raised and just as much fun as ever before. Well done Lions. Crossroads: Jackie D., Rebecca C., Lucas K., Judee G., Jillian N., Jordan Y., Emily P.
