I like to record from time to time a little sketch of Glenlawn's current development in this space, as the accumulating yearbooks form quite a useful and interesting record of the school's history.

Dakota Collegiate was opened this past fall with the result that the composition of student body here is quite changed. Thirteen of the twenty-six classes grouped under Mr. Derenchuk's tender care are taking the Commercial and New General courses. These students are interested in a more practical education and since they comprise half the student body make a difference in the general outlook of the school.

There is a great change in approach and content in subject matter being taught at Glenlawn. All the new texts in the Grade Eleven General course have been put into use. I understand the students find them stimulating and are taking more interest in their school work. This same stimulus is being applied to the Grade Ten Commercial students in English and Geography as these new General course materials have been adopted for the Commercial curriculum. Physics is having a breath of fresh air, too, by means of the P.S.S.C. course. Very much that is new has been going on in 'old' Glenlawn this year.

It is a pleasure also to include in the yearbook my congratulations and appreciation to all those who work hard to promote both our major objective of formal education and our extra-curricular program. The staff provides the framework of energy and direction in which the whole enterprise operates. The editor and staff of this yearbook, the house executives and committees that have produced the Roar, Audio programs, and arranged the school dances, and the Drama Club have all worked hard. Student Council has carried out very well its duties of initiation and guidance in these student activities. Thanks to you all. May this yearbook be a reminder to you of many happy days and enterprises.

J. T. Thistlethwaite
Principal of G.C.I.

My first year as Vice - Principal of Glenlawn Collegiate is drawing to a close, and for me it has been a year of inspiration.

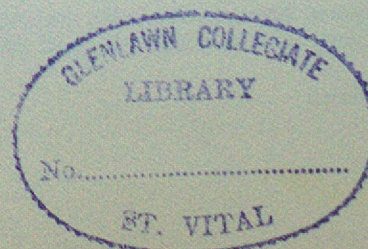

Through the experience gained as a teacher at Glenlawn and through working with the students in the Glee clubs, operettas, variety shows and graduations, I feel that I have been able to understand and appreciate something of the ideals for which the school stands. I welcome therefore, the privilege of being its Vice - Principal.

I have looked upon the achievements of the students in the past years with interest and with pride. Without a doubt the school's best traditions fostered in the past are in safe keeping today.

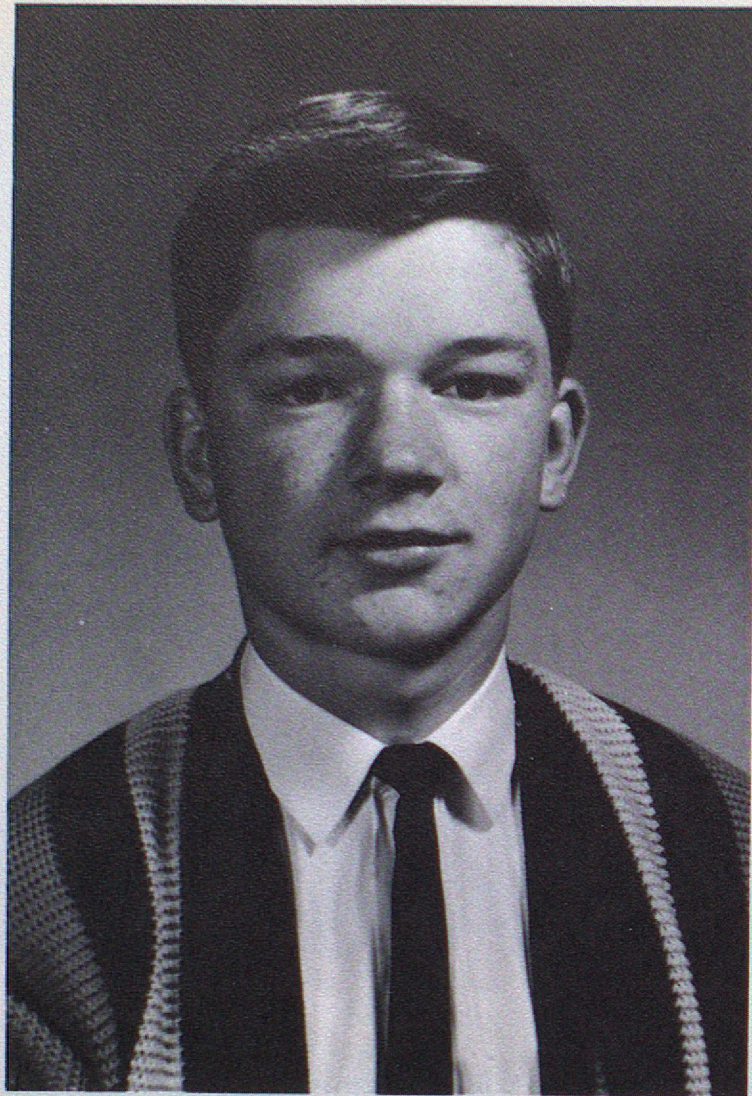

To those who are graduating this year, let us hope that the training received in the Glenlawn Collegiate will give you the necessary foundations on which to build a successful future. In the years to come, you should strive to be good citizens at all times, citizens who are honest, and have high moral principles, with a deep sense of responsibility towards that society which gave you a free education with all its attendant privileges and which should continue to give future generations the same privileges.

I wish to express in closing, my deepest thanks to the Principal, the teachers, the caretaking staff and the students for having made this, my first year as your Vice - Principal so enjoyable. Your thoughtfulness and energetic support have helped to make the year most gratifying in every respect.

P. Derenchuk
Vice - Principal of G.C.I.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

When, in the future, we look back on our years at Glenlawn some of us may regard the time spent as a mere phase in our education, while others will enjoy a much fuller remembrance.

It is a well known truth that the more seeds you sow, the greater harvest you will reap. Those students who have worked unflinchingly to promote some activity have not only made school life a more rewarding experience for all of us but also have gained a great deal for themselves. They have reaped the greatest harvest.

I would like to thank all the various committee heads and members who, through their worthwhile endeavours have made school life as enjoyable as it is.

Council joins with me in saying that this year has been an enjoyable and memorable one and hoping that the high standards attained in 63-64 will be upheld and improved upon by next year's students.

Ron Lowe
President

COUNCIL'S REPORT

Since the yearbook would not be complete without a few reminders of the Student Council's activities, I take this opportunity to recall for you all the wonderful events, projects and productions which took place during the school year.

Our four houses took turns in hosting three successful dances and a hootenanny, with Glenlawn students in attendance at all and Dakotans as our Special guests in the spring.

Graduation was certainly a memorable event, with Tim Anderson delivering the Valedictory address.

Our newspaper "The Roar", inaugurated the printing of pictures in its last edition. The Yearbook Committee Boasts a new camera, and the Audio Club has a sturdy new Audio room in the auditorium, as well as a new turntable to furnish it.

The Council was able to supply the Varsity Boys Basketball team with new uniforms. The Soccer team is fitted with new Soccer boots, and the Senior Cheerleaders sport colorful new outfits.

Mr. Muldrew was assisted by Track Club members in the building of four banked corners in the gymnasium.

This year sparkling white sweatshirts with red lettering were sold and loyal students purchased school phone books, beanies in red and grey, and "I'm for Glenlawn" buttons. Many students took the opportunity to buy rings and pins in the last term of the year.

The Drama club was back in operation again this year with its production of "I Remember Mama" which was certainly a successful and enjoyable event.

The Council introduced the idea of an All-Round Letter system, whereby deserving students would receive school letters.

And last, but not least, you heard during the noon hours the refreshing music of the G.C.I. Radio station. Due to the greatly appreciated efforts of our disc jockey, Dennis McIntosh, the radio was a tremendous success.

In conclusion, I would like to say that the year has been an adventurous and memorable one for each individual member of the Council, as we hope it has been for each one of you.

Leah Errington

YEARBOOK EDITORIAL

There are many people, students and teachers, whose participation in extra-curricular activities is well known and widely admired. Glenlawn has many unsung heroes as well. These are the people without whom Glenlawn could not produce successful Track Meets, and Drama Nights. These are the people who time races and move scenery. I would like to take this opportunity to praise and thank these people, as many of them have been invaluable to the yearbook as a whole.

As your yearbook editor, I have endeavoured to make this your yearbook; a catalogue of the things you, as a student, have done this year. I hope that this book will contain as many fond memories for you as it does for those who created it for you. I feel that you will now be able to look upon this yearbook as a diary of all the important, memorable, and exciting events which have occurred during this year of your school career.

Sharon Haglund.

Much has gone into the publication of this yearbook and many students have been involved. On behalf of my committee heads I would like to say THANK YOU!

Laugh At Me

Cry! How could she merely cry? She searched the void where her heart had been -- no feelings remained. She pained her deadened senses to try and remember how it happened. The whole evening was hazy, but for the one clear moment when she had handed Chad his ring, rushed from the car and sought refuge in her home.

How? How could she face the kids at school tomorrow? Hadn't they warned her? "Never more than a month". Why did she think she was different? She was wrong -- they were right. They were all right. "I guess I got carried away with his being school president and the swingiest guitar player in the city", she muttered, trying to justify her folly. They'll laugh at me, I know they will. How can I face them. I won't go! I just won't go!

But she did go. Her mother made her go. All the way to school, she uttered a fervent prayer. The kids didn't notice me before Chad. I hope they'll overlook me now. She paused at the steps, hesitating, hoping she wouldn't meet anyone. There was only enough time to reach her class and settle in her seat. She felt a light touch on the back of her neck and whirled around to face Maury.

"Oh . . . hi . . . some lint on your sweater . . . I was just brushing it off", snickered the practical joker. She looked at him venomously, turned and walked down the hall with his laughter ringing after her. "He knows,, he saw I wasn't wearing the ring and he knows."

The bell rang as she slipped into her seat. She rose at the first chord of the anthem, but could only mouth the words as she heard the stifled giggles behind her. They know -- they all know. They're all laughing. Her heart froze.

She raced to the haven of the study hall. The crowd seemed to part to let her pass. Their jeers echoed in the halls. People she didn't even know laughing, all laughing -- the smother snickers and gay chuckles which swarmed around her and flowed past her.

And then, what a climax! She slipped into the lunchroom, only to come face to face with Chad. He beamed at her as if nothing had happened. They exchanged a brief nod. She thought, "he's certainly living up to his reputation; 'Love 'em and leave 'em', but at least he didn't laugh". At least . . . "Oh no", his laughter staggered her. "Not Chad, too".

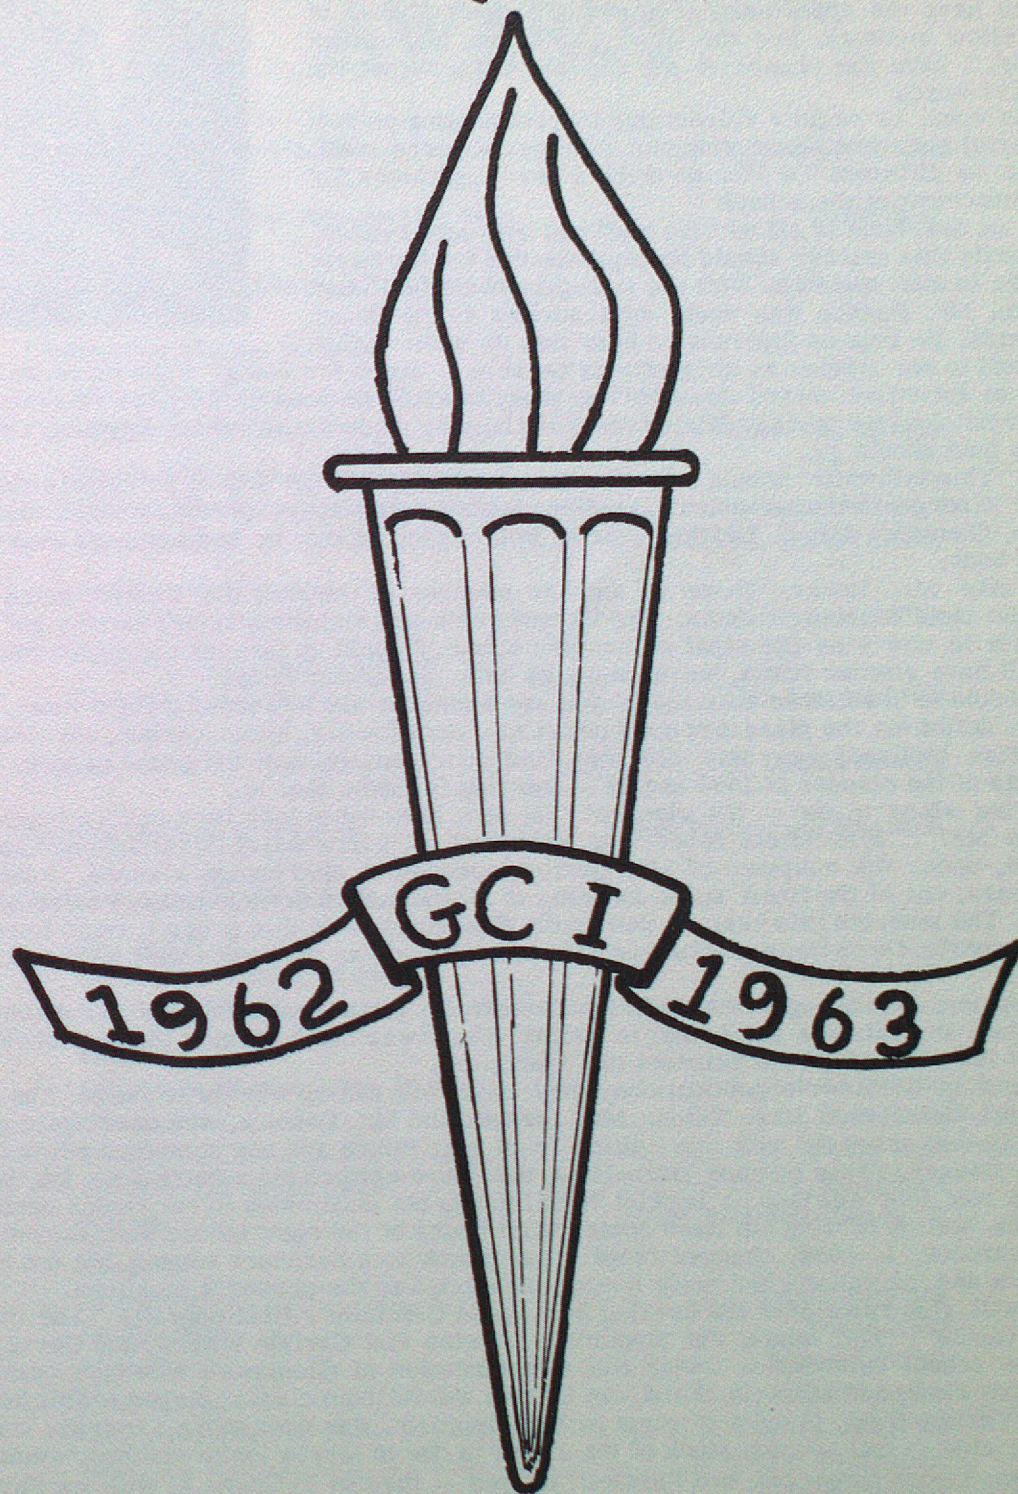

If they must laugh, why not to her face? Why always behind her back? Her mind churned with memories of laughing people; the librarian, the cast at drama club, the class in physics lab. She forced herself to smile at their amusement. "Hold on until you get home, then your grief can be released", she commanded herself. At the bell she fled amidst the snickers of her fellow classmates. The door squeaked a last giggle. The whole building bubbled with gaiety as she fled in misery.

She stumbled into the house and flung herself on the couch. But the tears would not come. Her leaden heart ached with the cruelty of her friends during her heartbreak. As she rose stricken, a piece of paper fell from her back to the floor at her feet. She stooped to pick it up.

"Laugh at me!" it read.

GRADUATION

VALEDICTORY

Mr. Chairman, Honoured Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen -- and for tonight I guess that includes my friends. Thank you, Sir, for your kind introduction. May I say how honoured I feel to have the opportunity of speaking to you on behalf of my fellow students. For the first time in my high school career, I have the chance to say the last word, rather the last 511 words.

It is usual to begin a Valedictory by commenting on how wonderful everyone was during our high school years. Well, just to be different I'd like to make a few suggestions for the betterment of the school.

Let us deal first of all with the staff and with Mr. Pearce. Primarily this teacher should be reprimanded for his warm attitude to the students. With the introduction of the House system, Mr. Pearce was made staff adviser to the House of Sparta. He kept us Spartans so busy that we were unable to attend to our studies as diligently as we were -- noted for doing? When there was a lag in House activities toward the end of last year, he could be seen wasting his valuable lunch hour time clocking track and field runners or helping students with their Physics. Certainly this man should go.

Mr. Thistlethwaite should also be removed. Other High School principals ran such nicely disorganized timetables that their students had spare periods without teachers. Not so, Glenlawn. Mr. T. had this place so well organized that we had teachers every hour on the hour.

Or take Mr. Boyes. There is another member of the staff that wasted! much of his valuable time helping students. The improvement has already started, as they got rid of him. He is now vice-principal of another school. I could go through the entire staff, for they all have similar faults, but we must go on to pleasanter things.

It should be mentioned here that if you are a teacher and are looking for a mate, Glenlawn is definitely the place to come. Look at Mr. Drosdowech, Miss Johnson, Mr. Halstead and Miss McLeod! Not only did they find mates but are now the proud parents of two students of the classes of 1980 and 81 -- barring failures, that is.

Moving along to us -- the class of '63, what have we to look back on? To begin with, despite Mr. T.'s excellent scheduling, enough of us, particularly Grant Johnson and Lee Ingram, under the auspices of Mr. Garten managed to skip enough classes, to build, in two years, one of the finest sound systems in all the schools of Manitoba. You're hearing it now. The students this year are putting the final touches on this project. Good Luck, you audio experts. I hope the teachers aren't as irate with you as they were with us for skipping periods.

In sports, we brought the C.I.A.C. Freshman girls basketball and Freshman boys basketball and gained a semi-final in soccer. There was much greater interest shown and a lot of fun had by both participants and spectators.

Regarding Glenlawn's publications, they improved during our three years. The Roar, under the direction of Mrs. Walton, Mrs. Fraser and Mr. Daenick, was once again placed on a regular schedule with one edition from each House and one combined edition from all the Houses. Those budding journalists, the House editors did a marvelous job, putting out the last four editions in booklet form. It was not uncommon to see House personnel and Mrs. Walton turning out Roar copies at all hours of the night before distribution date. The yearbook, in 1962, changed from a paperback to a hardback edition, but not before Mr. Dow and the editors had made innumerable trips to the printer's in Altona.

We will also remember the howling success of Glenlawn's first operetta "The Pirates of Penzance". The leads, Pat Sexsmith, Kerrine and Carlyle Wilson, and Chris Kent, became school celebrities. Under the able direction of Glenlawn's new vice-principal, Mr. Derenchuk, and Mrs. Handford, the Gilbert and Sullivan classic played to full houses.

The Variety Show, in spite of some prior pessimism, was once more a terrific success playing also to full houses. Much of the credit is due to Myrna Smith and her committee.

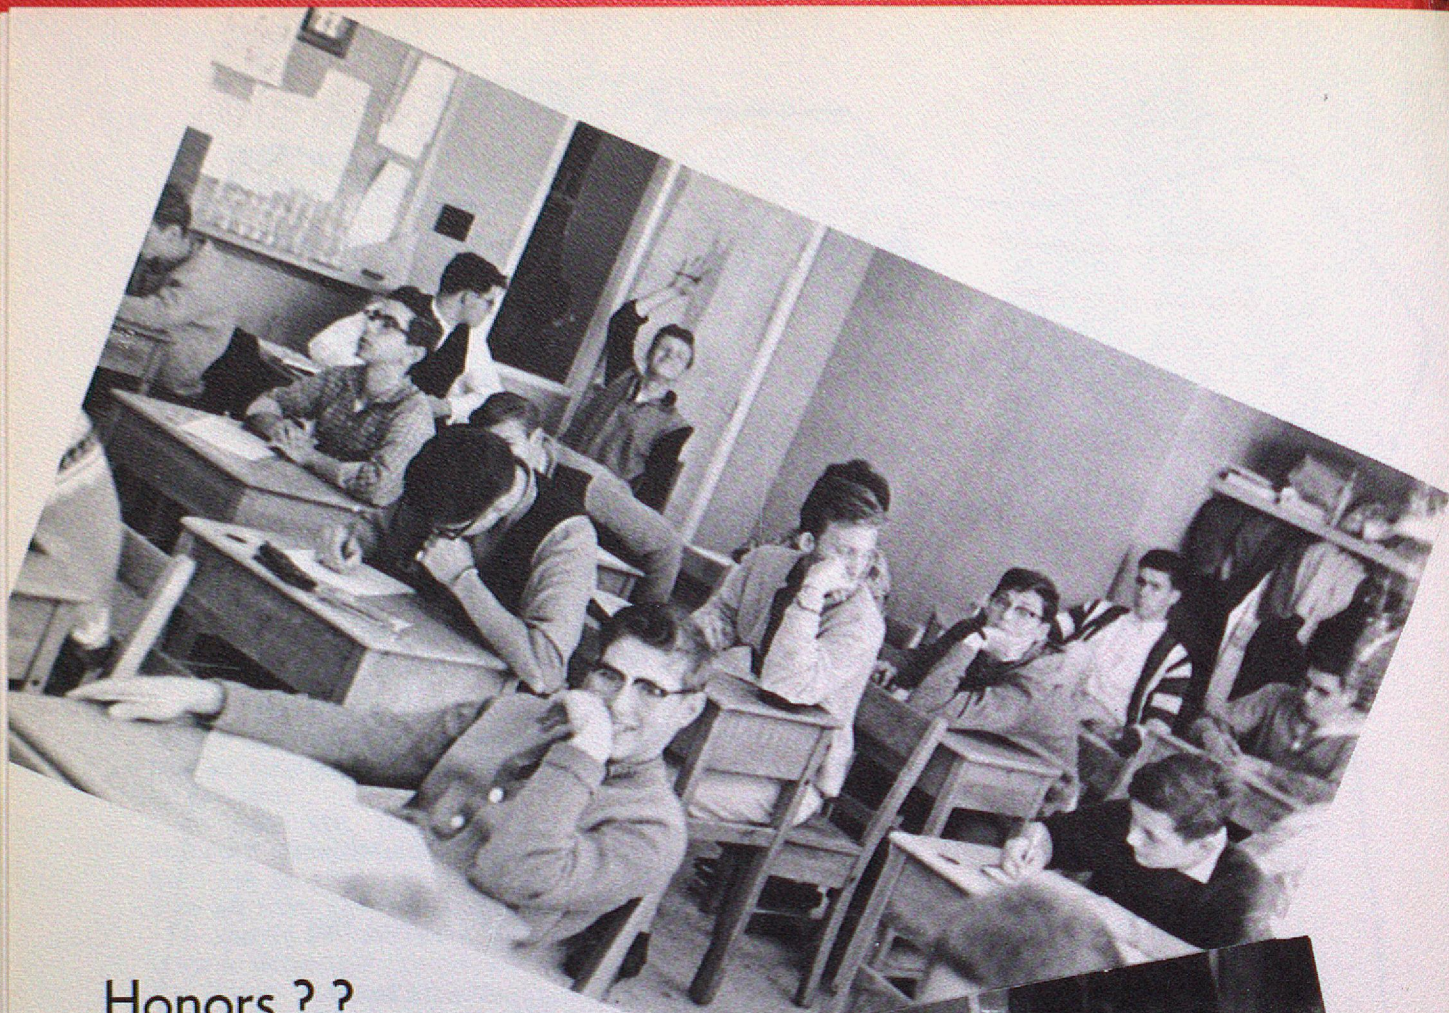

We won't soon forget our two Farewell dances -- the one in Grade XI with its Parisian theme and the one this spring with its Oriental flavor.

In closing, I'd like to say that these three years will stand out prominently in our memories as being a period of transition -- the transition from the spoon-feeding we received at grade school and junior high levels to the adult treatment we are beginning to receive in our final preparations for our life's vocations. We thank you, Mr. Thistlethwaite, and you, our teachers, and you, our parents, for your patience and your assistance to us over these three sometimes trying years.

AUTUMN

The breath of autumn tinged the air,
The breath of autumn blew my hair,
But the summer sun still brightly shone
And smiled of days that now were gone.

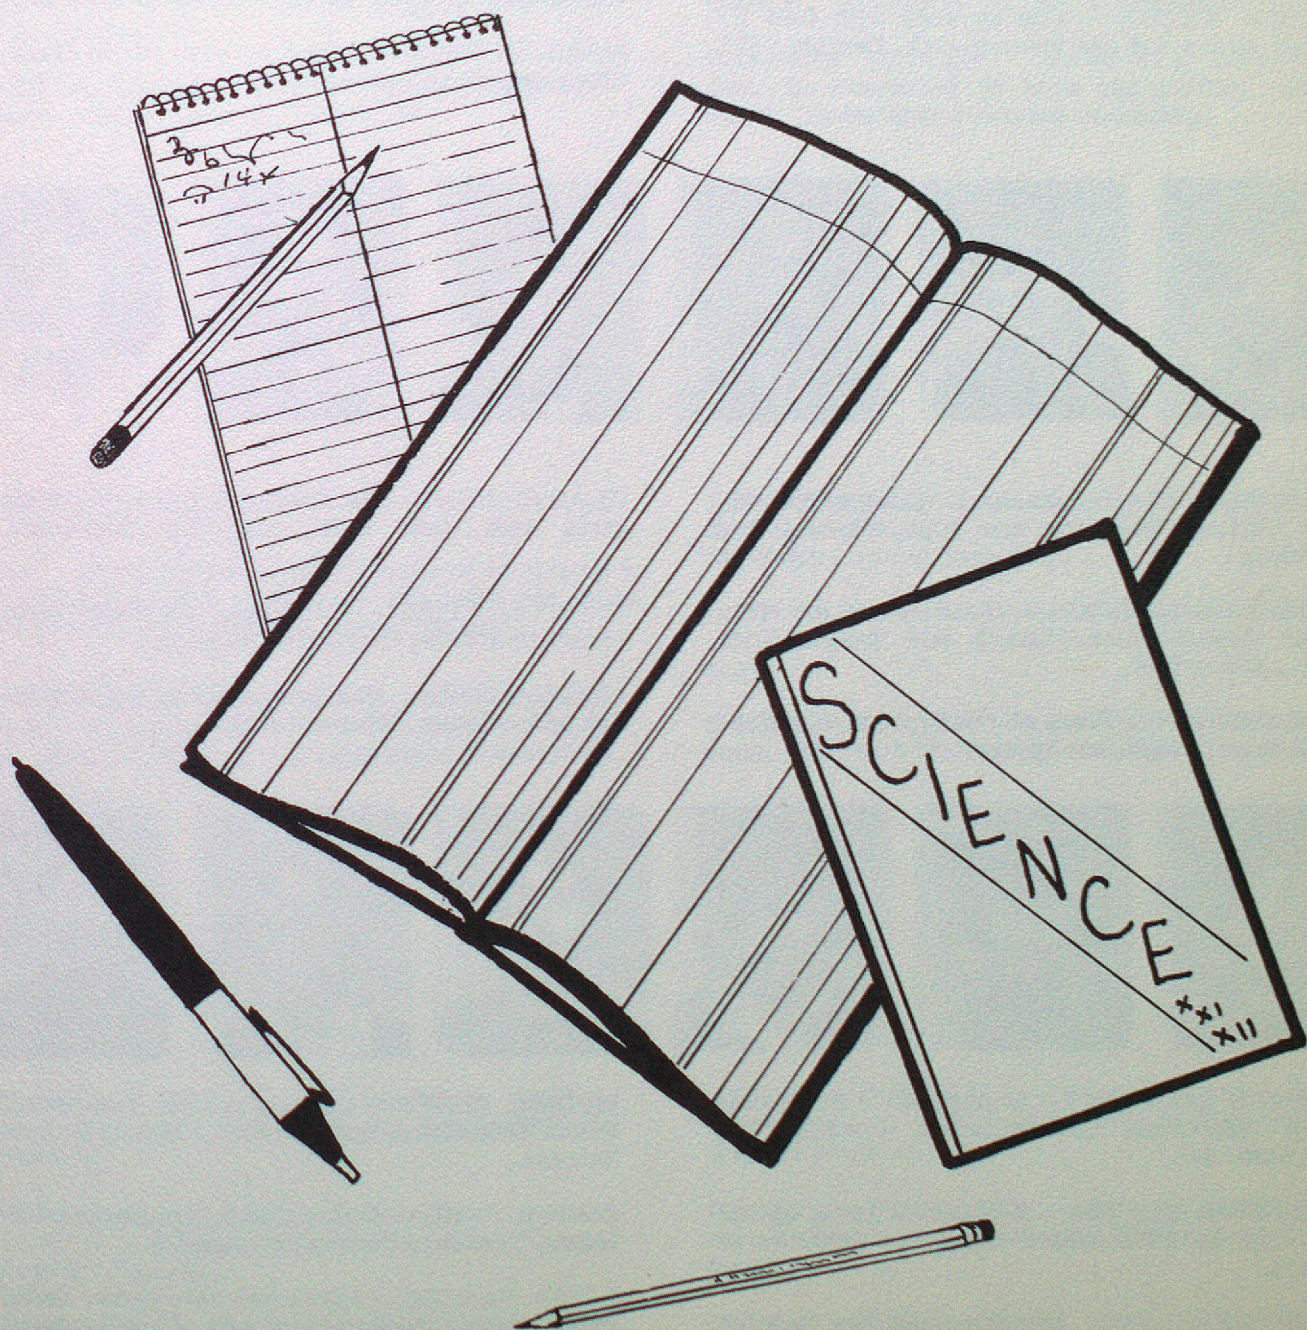

Can we not learn a lesson from these,
The lowly, yet fruitful and common trees,
Whose leaves now begin to change
Into new colours both familiar and strange.

While lying dejected on the ground,
Or while being merrily blown around,
The leaves will remember those happy days
When their fiery colours caught our gaze.

Gone is the beauty from every tree,
Parted the colours we long to see--
Naked instead, the gaunt trees stand
To remind us that cold winter's at hand.

DOUG ACHORN - A fairly studious and quiet fellow. He is commonly known as Elvis A. Chorn.

REID BURNETT - Our "pres" is a real great guy. Main interests - girls, sports, and school (in that order).

EVA DRYDEN - An active curler, in various sports activities. She is an outstanding supporter of Glenlawn.

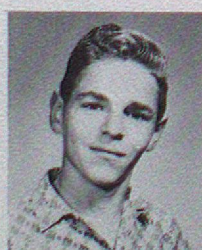

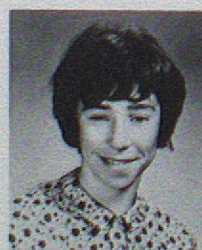

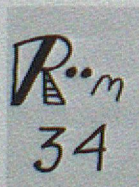

BILL ENGLISH - A quiet lad, but we can't figure out why. His main interest is on four wheels.

GEORGE EVANS - Mr. Gingera's favorite pupil gives him a hard time. George can't get enough of school so he comes early every morning.

BOB FORTIER - Occupies a rear seat (how is a mystery). Special interests include curling, basketball and girls.

SUZANNE GARNIER - Sports rep. She is a member of the Lionettes. Always drawing on other people's books.

DIANE GARWOOD - Vice-president of our room. Always seen laughing or talking to Eve.

BRIAN HOLLOWAY - One of the few hard working members of the class. He is a true sports enthusiast.

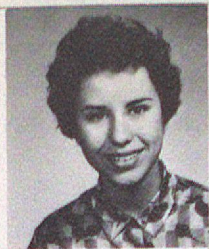

ROOM 34 GRADE

JUDY MOON - This cute little miss has a smile for everyone. She is House A's sports rep. On school teams.

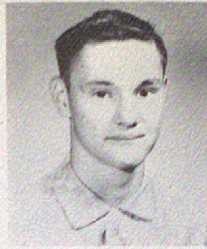

LARRY JONES - Ambitious young student who always does his homework?? Ambition: Unknown. Destiny: Another Ed Norton.

PAT FRIESEN - One of room 34's "Jeune filles". Works at Kresge's on the weekends. Can't understand Physics.

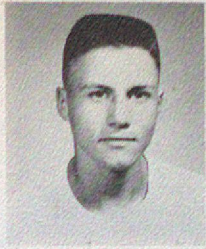

BILL TSUTSUMI - Can be heard occasionally throughout the class telling B. D. to shut up.

DIANA CRONMILLER - Intelligent and charming describes this young "miss". Number "3" in the "Terrible Trio."

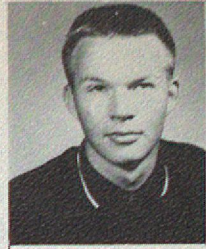

BILL LAKE - Interests include football and curling. He brings up the odd question that causes the teachers to think!!

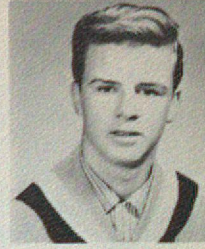

STEVEN FOSTER - Our boy genius has a peculiar knock for collecting the "little white slips".

TOM STANLEY - First in class every morning at eight; I doubt if this cat's ever been late. A doctor, our Tom wants to be. The medical profession is calling thee.

MARK EIDSVIG - Likes basketball and golf. We hardly realize MARK is with us?? He is so polite waits for break to fall asleep.

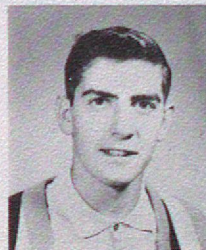

DARRYL THOMPSON - On the weekends he serves on the Safeway chain gang. Won't reveal his ambition. Occupies a back seat!

KEN REDDING - His interests include hockey and electronics. Ambition: An electronic engineer. Destiny: Spark plug tester.

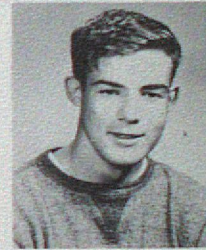

SANDY McCONNEL - "Miss Personality" of our room. Works at Eaton's in her spare time.

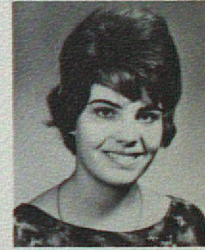

BILL COLE - Occupies a front seat?? Ambition: To learn to ride bareback. Destiny: Bareback rider.

SHEILA GRAHAM - She is one of the few quiet one's in 34. Well liked by all. Her interests seem to be outside of Glenlawn???

NORM SMITH - Alias "Gallopig Gurdy." He is a good all-round athlete. Has an extensive record collection and is a member of Hi-C.

SUSAN BANNISTER - Appears to be Delia's walking shadow. Occupies a front seat but not for the same reason as most do.

DELIA DERKSON - Susan's "Constant Companion." Class librarian and a member of the I.S.C.F.

JOHN McCLURE - His ambition is to be a "Millionaire." Destiny: A Billionaire. Known as "Hank the Tank."

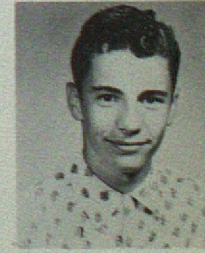

BOB WILLIAMSON - An ardent member of the Hi-C and working his way to a front seat? Vice-President of the school.

LORNE BARBER - Believe it or not, he usually knows what he's talking about. Quiet in class but a participant in most "goings on."

VALERIE LIVESLEY - "Val" has just returned to our hallowed halls after spending a year in jolly old England. Loves to tell the time.

DONALD FISCHER - He blends together scholastic achievement and athletic ability. Don played on Glenlawn's soccer team.

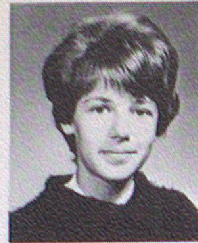

BARBARA WOOD - One of the brighter "souls" of Room 34. Member of our senior cheerleaders.

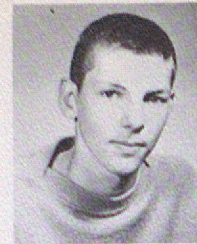

EARL CHRISTOPHERSON - He is interested in most sports. How did Earl ever receive the honour of a back seat??

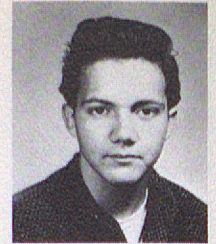

DONNA TUFTS - Our noted Red Cross Rep. Sec. of the House of Athens. Sits at the back and takes advantage of it.

JOAN POCOCK - Pert little "miss", occupying a back seat??? Member of the varsity girl's basketball team. Pet Peeve: French.

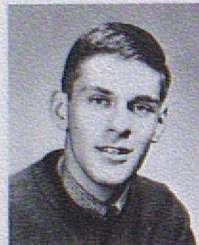

BRUCE DOBBIN - Occupies a front seat and adds ??? reputation of our room. Frequently reminded to keep his feet off his desk.

DON SEADON - Takes an interest in most sports especially track. Still gets those good grades. Ambition: Educated beachcomber. Destiny: Nuclear physicist.

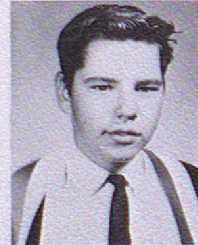

MARY GREGOR - "Sparkley little redhead" is Captain of the House of Sparta and a member of the Glee Club. Our Junior at Eaton's.

LEIF RASMUSSEN - Has a vast vocabulary and is Room 34's wit. Works for the Free Press.

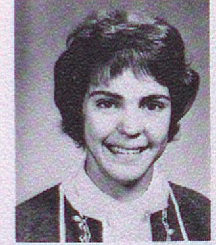

CLIFF TUCK - Plays hockey with Glenwood and has many war wounds. He and Bruce are partners in crime but his real interests lie down the hall.

MURRAY CUTHBERT - Loves weighty discussions; interests are hockey and tape recorders.

LINDA CLUFF - Another cute little redhead with a sense of humour.

MARGARET HAMEL - A junior cheerleader who also plays volleyball. Interests lie in Room 17.

SALLY TSUTSUMI - The littlest one in Room 34. Has a lively sense of humour and is full of fun. An ardent skier.

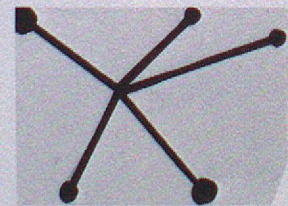

MADELINE GOSMAN - "Maddie" is No. 1 in the "Terrible Trio". Plays on both varsity teams and is always willing to help with Homework.

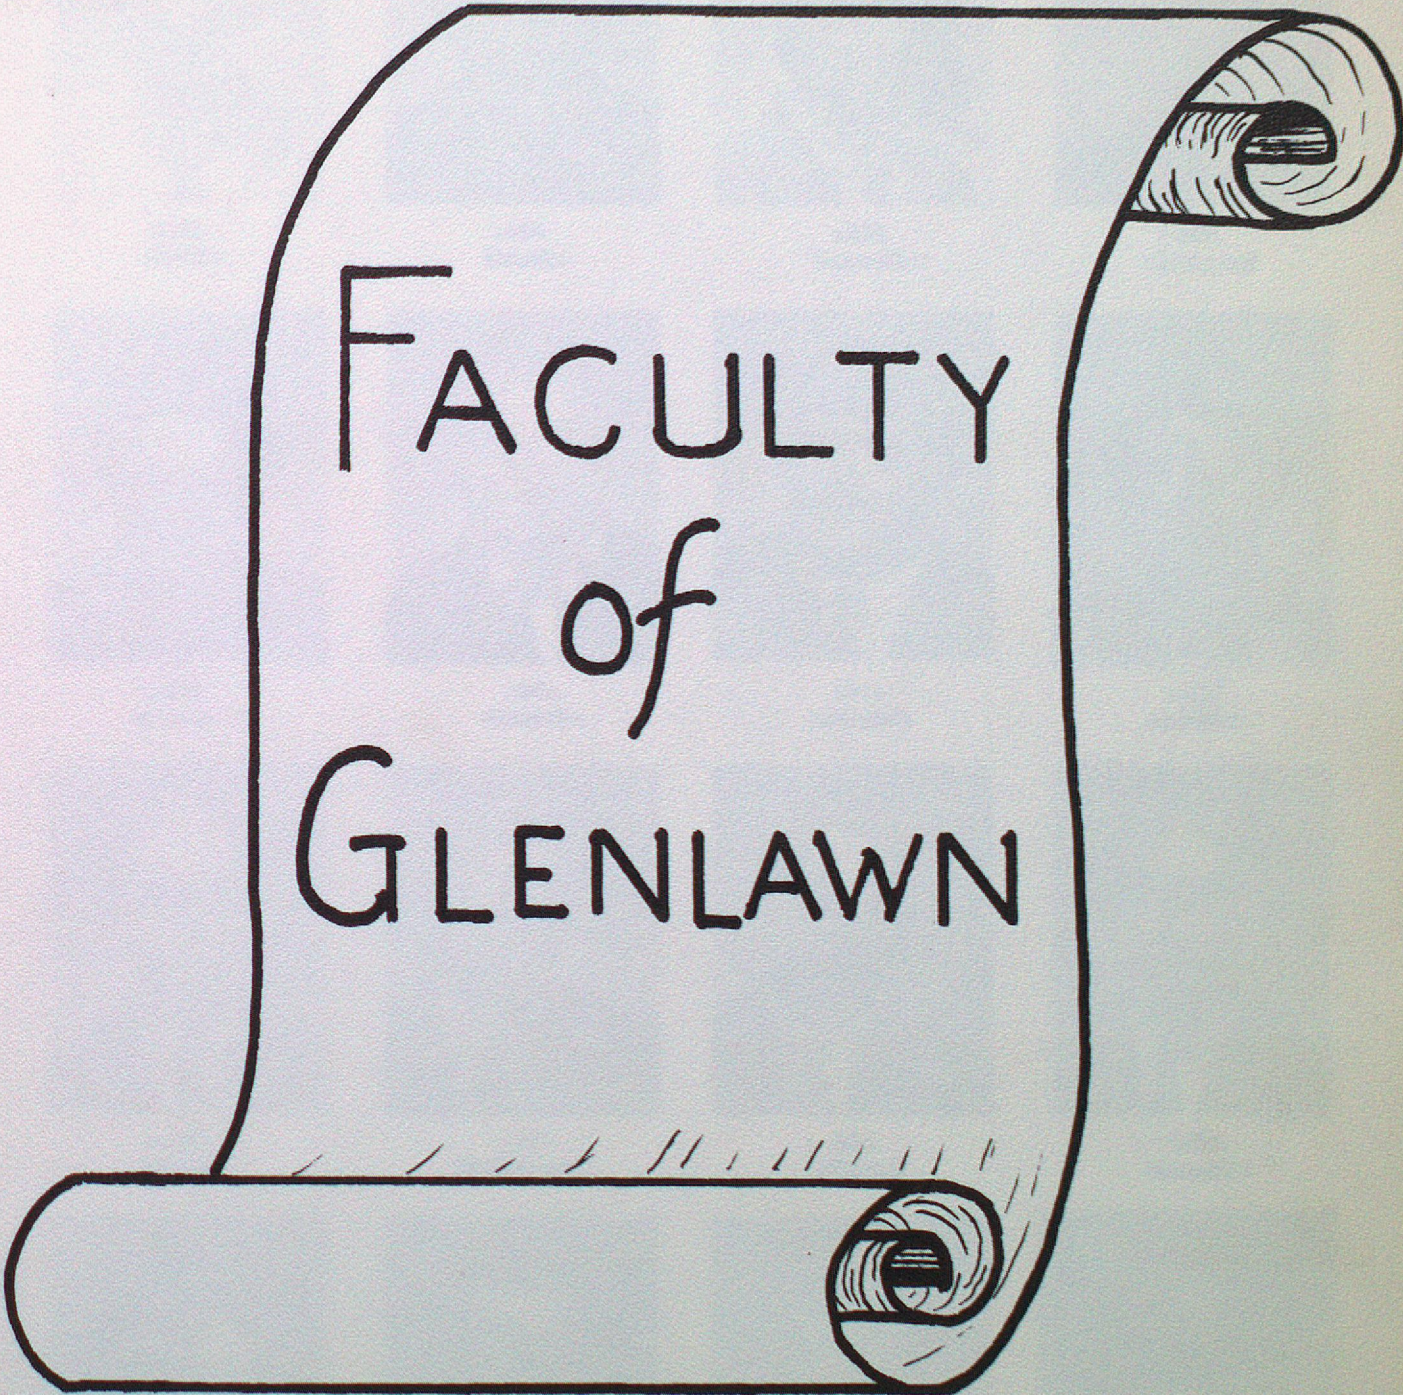

BILL NOYES - Alias "Noisey Bill" curls at the Thistle Rink and likes golf.

BONNIE POPOFF - Mystery Girl!! Very quiet but loves walking and reading. Ambition: Physio-therapist.

HOUSE OF OLYMPUS

Back Row: Sandy McTavish, Sue Parkinson, Lise Haarstad, Donna Rutherford
Front Row: Laurie Hawn, Mark Youngs, Don Ingram, House Captain.

With our new adviser in the person of Mr. Gingera, the House of Olympus has experienced a very successful year. The selling of School beanies and Telephone directories did much to boost the spirit of the school and gave the House a rise in status.

We hope in the following years the House will provide tough competition against the other Houses and attain much success.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all Olympians for their overwhelming support.

“DIRIGIMUS” -- WE DIRECT AND LEAD

HOUSE OF ATHENS

Back Row: Penny Moore, Donna Tufts, Pat Wolczuk, Barb Iverach.
Front Row: Terry Tomlinson, John Toone, Wayne Church, House
Captain.

The House of Athens Executive has been working diligently to help their house reach the top rung of the success ladder. The House of Athens sponsored the Christmas dance "Winter Wonderland", which proved to be a smashing success. Santa (Wayne Church) appeared to provide added enjoyment.

In the field of sports, Athenians have proved to be worthy opponents, placing first in soccer, third in volleyball, and coming on strongly in basketball. In the future Athenians will continue to live up to their motto:

"NULLI SECONDUS" -- SECOND TO NONE

Pat Wolczuk

HOUSE OF SPARTA

Front Row: Betty Owen, Judy Ulyatt, Mary Gregor, House Captain.

In September of 1963, Spartans put shoulders to the wheel and noses to the grindstone and began another year of activities by electing an executive.

In October Spartans staged a Car Wash in the Safeway parking lot to raise funds to purchase a House Standard for the auditorium. Our enthusiasm paid off and the financial rewards were gratifying.

November 22nd was the date of the Sparta Hootenanny held in the auditorium at noon. It was the first venture of its kind and all joined in to "clap along".

Sparta also sponsored the "Heart Hop" Valentine Dance on February 14th. "The Emeralds" provided music and entertainment and the evening was climaxed by the crowning of the King and Queen of Hearts -- Don McLean and Leah Errington.

On the Sports scene, Spartan girls should be congratulated for their unfailing enthusiasm and abilities. They placed first in the A League of Inter-House Basketball, a great upset for the esteemed other Houses. Spartan boys didn't make quite as good a showing, but they were in there giving it the 'Old Spartan Try'. Naturally we hope and expect great things of next year's teams.

As you can no doubt see, this year has shown Spartans to live up to their most fitting motto:

"PONON BOULOMONOS PONEIN" WORK WITH A WILL

Judy Ulyatt

HOUSE OF TROY

House Captain.

Last September when we entered these halls of learning!!! the executive for the House of Troy was chosen, and in addition, Mr. Bachinsky, of the faculty was appointed our adviser.

At the time this report was presented, the Brown and Green colors of the Trojans have the honoured first place in house standings with more than a 40 point lead over the other Houses. This is due to the excellent teamwork and spirit of our track, volleyball and soccer teams. Our track team was first in the cross country meets. The girls volleyball team placed first in their league and the boys team a very close second in their competition. Our Soccer Team made a good showing by placing second in their group.

In addition to sports activities, you House members were hosts at the first House dance held on November 1st. Although the results of the volleyball game played the same night with Vincent Massey were disappointing the morale was restored by the huge success of the dance.

With the help and co-operation of all members of the House of Troy we will continue to lead, and will truly live up to our motto:

“SEMPER EXCELSIUS” -- EVER UPWARD

Beth Hardy
